Confessions Have Not Yet Gone to Bottom of the Murder Plot.

"SYSTEM" BARED IN ITS HIDEOUSNESS

Lieut. Becker, Pacing His Cell, Proclaims His Innocence.

New York, July 30.—While Charles A. Becker, formerly for nearly twenty years a member of the police department and latterly commanding the so-called strong arm squad, paced his cell in the Tombs today, protesting his innocence of murder. New York officials from mayor down went forward with the investigation into the death of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, whose murder Becker is alleged to have instigated to frustrate Rosenthal's threat of revealing an alliance between the lieutenant and gamblers of the tenderloin.

In different cells, fearful of the lieutenant's vengeance and begging for protection are Jacob (Jack) Rose, Louis (Bridgie) Webber, and Harry Vallenski (Vallon), erstwhile gamblers and workers of the underworld, who confessad last night that they set the stage at Becker's bidding and hired the assassins who put Rosenthal to death in front of the Hotel Metropole.

Mayor Orders Investigation.

Police Commissioner Waldo was an early caller at city hall and was ushered immediately into the mayor's office for a conference. Soon afterward the mayor announced that he would call a special meeting of the board of aldermen to begin an investigation of the police department. Commissioner Waldo had no statement to make.

Except to assert his innocence, Lieut. Becker has made no comment on his arrest. His wife and counsel visited him in his cell today. If the authorities hope to wring any confession from

RESCUE 200 AS STEAMER SINKS

Boat With Vacationists Aboard in Collision Off Maine Coast.

ALL SAFELY LANDED

Boston, July 30.—The side wheel steamer City of Rockland, from the Kennebec river to this port, with some 200 returning vacationists, had her bow stove in so badly that she sank to her guards, in a collision with the steamer collier William Chisholm, of New York.

The accident took place off Boone island, about twenty miles from York, Maine. The passengers on the City of Rockland were all transferred to the Chisholm, which had not been materially damaged by the collision. In the operation one of the boats was up-ended, spilling fifteen or twenty women into the sea, but all were rescued. Later the westbound steamer Belfast took the passengers off the collier and landed them in this city.

The City of Rockland was towed into Gloucester.

HIGH SPEED IS HELD TO BLAME

English Court of Inquiry Returns Verdict on Titanic Horror.

CONDEMN MUCH, BUT LITTLE NEW

Ismay and Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon Are Given Exoneration

London, July 30.—The judgment of the British board of trade court of inquiry into the disaster to the White Star liner Titanic which sank in mid-ocean with 1,517 souls after collision with an iceberg on April 14, was pronounced today by Lord Mersey, the presiding judge, before a large audience.

The court finds that the collision of the Titanic with the iceberg was due to the excessive speed at which the ship was navigated; that a proper watch was not kept; that the ship's boats were properly lowered but that arrangements for manning them were insufficient; that the Leyland liner California might have reached the Titanic if she had attempted to do so; that the track followed was reasonably safe under proper vigilance and that there was no discrimination against third class passengers in the saving of lives.

Ismay is Exonerated.

The court of inquiry exonerates J. Bruce Ismay, chairman and managing director of the White Star line, and Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon, one of the passengers from any charges of improper conduct.

The judgment recommends more water tight compartments in sea-going ships, the provision of life boats for all on board and more efficient drills of the crew as well as a better look out.

Lord Mersey's judgment is a formal legal document giving the history of the voyage and of the disaster, while the findings and recommendations of the court extend to great length. Much of the judgment is highly technical.

In it there was no argument and no direct reference to the inquiry by the committee of the United States senate under the chairmanship of Senator William Alden Smith.

Most Important Findings.

The most important findings of the court were that the Titanic was sufficiently and efficiently officered and manned and complied with all the regulations of the British merchant shipping act regarding safety, but that the arrangements for manning and launching the life boats in an emergency were insufficient and that no drill had been held. The instructions for the voyage given prior to sailing were, in the opinion of the court, adequate but "having regard to subsequent events, they would have been better if reference had been made to the course to be adopted in the event of the vessel reaching the region of ice."

Captain E. S. Smith, of the Titanic, was not, said the court, fettered by orders to remain in the track, but naturally would keep near to the accepted route. In the conditions existing the night of the accident and especially in view of the high speed at which the Titanic was steaming, an extra lookout should, in the court's opinion, have been placed in the stem of the boat, and a sharp watch kept by the officers on both sides of the bridge. The speed of twenty-two knots was regarded by the court as excessive.

That eight of the boats were not filled when they left the sinking vessel was, the court finds, because the passengers did not realize their danger and the officers, who were uncertain of the

ONCE PUT BLAME ON NEGRO BUTLER

Mrs. Grace Declared if Anybody Had Shot 'Gene It Was "J. C."

HUSBAND IN FEAR

Atlanta, Ga., July 30.—How Mrs. Daisy Grace, on trial here, acqused of having attempted to kill her husband, once declared that if anybody had shot Grace, it was "J. C." a negro butler, was recited on the stand today by Mrs. S. L. Hill, Grace's mother.

Mrs. Grace arrived at the Hill home in Newnan, Ga., testified Mrs. Hill, and was informed that Grace had been shot in his home in Atlanta.

"After I had told of the shooting," testified Mrs. Hill, "Daisy said she did not believe it. I told Daisy that I was afraid Gene had accidentally shot himself.

"'If anyone shot Gene,'" she said Mrs. Grace declared, "it was J. C. (the negro butler.) Yesterday he nearly beat Martha to death and Gene told him if he touched her again he would wear his cane out on him.'"

Asked About Lungs and Heart.

Mrs. Hill said Daisy asked her where Eugene had been shot. Through the lung, she replied. When, later she told Daisy Gene was still alive and had been taken to a hospital, Mrs. Hill said Daisy inquired as to the proximity of the lungs and the heart and remarked that she did not know anybody who had been shot through the lungs could live. Asked as to whether Mrs. Grace had ever spoken about insurance, the witness said, Mrs. Grace remarked in November, 1911, that "she thought Gene should have his life insured for her protection." Next month, Mrs. Hill said her daughter told her that Grace had had his life insured.

The witness was asked:

"Why didn't you tell during your preliminary examination what you have just said as to Mrs. Grace's remark concerning the proximity of the heart and lungs?"

"I was excited at the time and did not remember."

TAISEI IS NEW JAPANESE ERA

State Ceremony Attending Change in Rulership Goes Forward.

NATION IN MOURNING

Tokio, Japan, July 31.—The great state ceremony in connection with the change in the rulership of the Japanese empire, caused by the death early yesterday morning of Mutsuhito and the accession to the throne of his son, Yoshihito, were continued today.

The announcement was made at an early hour of the name under which the new era is to be known. The era changes with every reign and an official decree says the new designation is to be Taisei in place of Meiji, as it was during the reign of Mutsuhito.

Calm reigns throughout the empire today, and the nation for the moment appears completely overcome with sorrow. All the people have put on signs of mourning, and all festivals and public functions have been stopped.

In the meantime the great state functionaries including the cabinet ministers, the privy councillors and the leading nobles confer almost continuously at the imperial palace where they are making arrangements for the funeral and for the ceremonial of the official mourning and lying in state.

It is expected that a special session of parliament will be called and that all the members of the cabinet will

HOUK TO TALK TO LOCAL "TEDDY" MEN

Republican County Chairman Will Deliver Address Before Progressives.

MEETING IS CALLED

When the progressive republicans of Allen county meet this evening at the assembly room of the court house among others who will speak will be County Chairman Amos E. Houk. Mr. Houk, whose views about the progressive wing of the party are well known to all, has been invited to deliver an address and he has accepted the invitation.

"I will speak to them as any county chairman should to other members of his party," said Mr. Houk this afternoon.

The progressives hope this evening to work up enough enthusiasm among the republicans of the county to select only progressive delegates at the primaries next Friday and Saturday. They are desirous of selecting progressive delegates for the district, state and joint senatorial conventions.

THAT ALLIGATOR STILL A TOPIC

When is a 'Gator Dead or Not Dead Seems to Puzzle Many.

JOIN IN DISCUSSION

Here is some alligator talk.

A story is now current that some man living on Wagner street, after learning that an alligator had been buried by the Smith Greater Shows, on North Clinton street, went to the carnival grounds Monday and succeeded in uncovering the decomposed remains of a monster reptile. At this time nobody has been able to locate the person who devoted his time to digging about for a dead alligator, and the story is laughed at by Fred Huber, who shot an alligator Sunday morning in St. Mary's river.

The Huber brothers do not contend that "their" alligator is not the one which the carnival company threw away for dead. They consider that tale very likely, but they also add that the reptile was very much alive when they shot it and dragged it from the river.

They not only declare that the alligator was alive, but they have money on their persons to bet anybody who denies that it was alive. The fact is that their contentions are agreed with by at least fifteen persons who saw the alligator after it had been taken from the river. They all agree that the reptile put up a lively fight long after at had been taken from the river.

The Other Side.

Those who believe the monster was dead when shot by Fred Huber point to the fact that its nose and mouth were peeling off when it was pulled from the water, and state that the marks are clear signs that fish had been nibbling about the carcass. It is also stated that not a pint of real blood flowed from the bullet wound in the head of the reptile, and that its mouth was already starting to decompose.

Views of an Expert.

R. G. Shulze, with S. F. Bowser & Co., who was one of the first to see the alligator after it was brought out of the river stated today that the reptile was certainly alive when Huber shot it, basing his belief on the fact that he

DEMOCRAT TO WIELD GAVEL

New Orleans Man Picked as Chairman of Progressive Convention.

RACE QUESTION UP TO ROOSEVELT

Veterans of Both Blue and Gray to Participate at Chicago.

New York, July 30.—John M. Parker, of New Orleans, a democrat, probably will be permanent chairman of the national progressive convention in Chicago next week. Senator Dixon, Col. Roosevelt's campaign manager, said today that Mr. Parker in all probability would be the man.

Gov. Hiram Johnson, of California, the senator said, will make one of the speeches seconding the nomination of Col. Roosevelt. Senator Dixon will leave late today for Chicago to complete arrangements for the convention.

The attitude of the national progressive party on the race question was inquired into today by a delegation of negroes which called on Colonel Roosevelt on his arrival in New York from Oyster Bay.

Col. Roosevelt assured them that he would do all in his power to secure for the negro his full rights under the constitution. The question of the "Lily White" movement in the south was brought up, but Col. Roosevelt postponed a definite answer as to this phase of the question, saying that in a few days he would make a public statement of his idea of the attitude the national progressive party should take.

PLAN BIG DEMONSTRATION.

Veterans of Both Blue and Gray to March at Chicago.

Chicago, July 30.—Confederate and union veterans of prominence, according to an announcement made today by Ralph C. Otis, chairman of the committee on arrangements, will participate in the opening program of the progressive national convention next Monday. Three hundred and fifty of the veterans, marshalled in two platoons of blue and gray, carrying the stars and stripes and the stars and bars, will march to the Coliseum as a preliminary feature to the formal opening of the convention. As the veterans enter the Coliseum hundreds of furled flags suspended from the roof of the big building will be loosened, military bands will play martial music and a big demonstration is expected to mark the occasion.

"I have received assurances from all sections of the south that the former confederate officers, both democrats and republicans, who have been invited to participate in this feature, are more than willing to do so," said Chairman Otis. "The list will contain the names of some of the most distinguished veterans, both confederate and union, in the entire country."

The committee on arrangements also announced that the keynote of Albert J. Beveridge would be the first of perhaps a dozen great oratorical efforts.

GET BUSY IN MISSOURI.

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—Delegates from practically every county in the state, it was expected would be present here today when the first state convention of the progressive party in Missouri was called to order. The convention will name delegates to the national gathering in Chicago, select presidential electors, choose a state committee and elect a new national committeeman. In addition the question of nominating a state ticket will be con-

TRUSTS GIVEN A CLEAN BILL

Have Nothing to Do With High Living Cost, Says Burton.

OHIO SENATOR IS CERTAIN OF THAT

Payne-Aldrich Tariff Law is Also Held Innocent and Blameless.

Washington, July 30.—Senator Burton, of Ohio, explained to the senate at length today the reasons which, in his opinion, are responsible for the present high cost of living. The manifest and important causes, he said, were "the phenomenal progress of recent years, the striking inequality of this progress in different lines of human endeavor and the tendencies to extravagance and waste and to diminished productive energy by a large part of the population.

"Neither the Payne-Aldrich tariff law or any other similar measure was responsible for the general high level of prices," he declared, "for the variations in prices have been so very considerable, both in the way of increase and decrease, as absolutely to disprove any inference that the change in prices has been due to the tariff of 1909, or to any other tariff act."

Exonerates the Trusts.

He exonerated the "trusts and large combinations of capital," with responsibility for high prices, declaring that a complete monopoly in any particular article affords a chance to increase its price, but that the same result is apparent when separate producers maintain an agreement as to prices.

"One of the serious influences tending to increase prices," he asserted, "is that of price agreements of various sorts. It

TWO PERISH IN A HOTEL BLAZE

Guests at Fairlee, Vt., Find Their Exit Cut Off by Flames.

OTHERS MAKE ESCAPE

Fairlee, Vt., July 30.—Two persons were burned to death and three others were injured, one probably fatally, in a fire that destroyed the Danforth house here today. The dead are:

Miss Effie Perkins, of Flushing, L. I., and Miss Florence Albee, of Springfield, Mass. Miss Perkins' father, mother and sister comprised the list of injured.

The fire broke out about 6:30 a. m. There were about thirty guests in the house at the time and nearly all of them were asleep.

The flames spread quickly to all parts of the house and those of the guests who did escape without injury were unable to save anything except the clothes they wore. C. E. Perkins, his wife, two daughters and Miss Albee were in a part of the hotel where their exit was cut off by the flames. Miss Effie Perkins and Miss Albee did not reach the outside. Mr. Perkins was so terribly burned that his death is expected. Mrs Perkins and another daughter were seriously burned. The loss to the hotel is estimated at $5,000.

LEFT NINETY-THREE DIRECT DESCENDANTS.

Toledo, Ohio, July 30.—Ninety-three direct descendants: Six children, thirty-seven grandchildren and fifty great grandchildren were left by Isidore Cousino, aged 92, whose funeral will take place at Erie, Mich., tomorrow. Cousino was dean of the Cousino family, wealthy landholders, whose ancestors were French pioneers in this section of the country. He died in Erie Sunday evening a few hours after six of his close kin of the same name were killed and three injured when a Lake Shore train hit their automobile four miles from this city.

Cousino lived all his life within eleven miles of this city. Until a year ago he rode a horse and personally supervised his farming.

THEY HAVE SOME AWFUL DREAMS AT LOGANSPORT.

Logansport, Ind., July 30.—Dreaming that he was battling with two thugs in police headquarters, John W. McGreevey, police commissioner, rushed one of the men to the door and directed a kick at him. McGreevey awakened with a howl of pain and found himself standing on one foot in bed and nursing the other. The room was dark and it was some time before McGreevey could convince himself that he was in his own room instead of in police readquarters. Blood on the foot board showed that he had kicked it instead of the imaginary thug. Examination showed that two small toes had been broken and a nail had been kicked off.

The Man at the Crank

FRED G. DURYEE, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, has been enjoying a season with his family at Lake James, and while there he spent a good deal of time on the water in his launch. Fred is always generous and it was seldom that the little boat went without being loaded to its capacity.

One day, when a party of six was enjoying a rapid skip through the smooth waters, the engine came to a sudden stop.

"Never mind," said Fred in an assuring tone, "I know what ails it," and he attached a crank and gave it a few quick turns while he adjusted certain parts of the mechanism.

The day wasn't very warm when they were whizzing through the ozone, but the sun was bright and the reflection on the water seemed to intensify the heat while they were standing still. Fred investigated a little more, turned a valve and screw and then gave the crank and fly wheel a few more turns. Then he stopped for breath. "Hot work!" he observed, as he mopped away some sweat. Again and again the attempt was made to get the engine started, but nothing moved. Finally a party in a row boat came alongside and offered to tow the launch ashore.

"Just so much obliged," said Fred, trying to smile through his tears, and the boat went on, while Fred tried again to get the thing to go. Then he made one almost superhuman effort, while everybody looked on silently. Grabbing the handle firmly, he made a mighty effort, when zip!—the crank flew out of his hand and landed kerplunk in the water several feet distant.

"Hot work!"

Some time passed before the distress signals were seen by another row-boat party, but the party managed to get ashore before the pangs of starvation or other calamity overtook them.

CHANCE TO HELP IN GREAT WORK

Committee of Sixteen to Receive Funds for Playgrounds.

WILL NOT SOLICIT

Fort Wayne's public playgrounds are to be kept up for the time being by a "Committe of Sixteen," composed of fifteen business men and Mrs. O. N. Guldlin. Jointly they have guaranteed that all the bills of the association shall be met, and they are hoping that other public-spirited citizens will come forward with voluntary subscriptions to help in this great work.

The formation of this committee is the result of the failure of the benefit given last week. Other cities in this state have been holding similar benefits and have in most cases reaped large profits. But there were no profits from the Pain "Last Days of Pompeii" in Fort Wayne, and so the private subscription method is again necessary to maintain the grounds.

It is not the intention of the members of the committee to solicit funds, but a letter is to be sent to every business man and every corporation in the city stating the exact purposes of the committee and emphasizing the importance to Fort Wayne of the benefits that the children are gaining from the grounds. The letter will ask that anyone feeling inclined to contribute to the cause of the children mail a check to Charles A. Wilding, care the Tri-State Loan and Trust company, who is the treasurer of the committee.

The committee in toto is as follows: Dr. L. P. Drayer, O. N. Guldlin, Mrs. O. N. Guldlin, Paul Mossman, George W. Beers, Charles Wilding, S. M. Foster, John H. Bass, Dallas Green, Henry C. Paul, S. B. Fleming, William M. Griffin, J. Ross McCulloch, Theo. F. Thieme, S. F. Bowser, Abe Ackerman.

BABIES TO RULE AT ROBISON PARK

All in Readiness for Annual Baby Show at Popular Resort.

ENTRY LIST SWELLS

At noon today more than 800 babies had been entered for the show tomorrow at Robison park, and before the entry list closes Manager C. H. Williams expects at least 1,000 names, completing the largest number ever entered in the annual baby day spectacle at the popular amusement resort.

There will be fat babies and lean babies, long ones and short ones, infants of all ages, and tiny tots, some handsome, others bewitching, but all beautiful just the same, and all entered to win the handsome prizes.

The selection of prize winning infants will be made in the grove near the band stand and judges for the occasion have been selected as follows: Mrs. Charles Martin, of Riverside avenue; Mrs. W. H. Sherbondy, of Nelson street; Mrs. F. M. Rhodes, of East Wayne street; Mrs. Darwin Stahl, of West Washington street; Mrs. S. J. Stevens, of Fairfield avenue; Mrs. Louis S. C. Schroeder, of Broadway, and Mrs. J. H. Young, of West Washington street.

These judges will select winners in the fancy dress parade, the baby show, decorated go-carts and carriages and girls with dolls and doll carts. The parade will start at 3 o'clock, headed by the band from the Indiana school, and awards will follow.

The most handsome twenty-five babies will be awarded prizes, and of the first twenty-five, three will be selected as the most beautiful. These will win first prizes, which consist of twenty-six pieces of Roger Bros., silverware.

A New Feature.

Pleased with the success of the boys' fancy dress parade, Mr. Williams has added to the day's program a fancy dress parade for girls. The first prize will be a gold pendant with a diamond. The second prize will be a diamond ring, and the third, fourth and fifth prizes will be gold necklace and lockets. This in no way interferes with girls' day on August 14, at which time a queen will be selected to occupy the throne for the day.

House for Prize Babes.

Heretofore the masses of people found difficulty in viewing the prize winning babies. To offset this tomorrow, Mr. Williams has erected a special house where mothers of prize winners will take their infants so that they may be seen by those who care to.

To convey the decorated carriages to the park, street cars will be attached to flat cars and will operate at regular intervals from different places about the city. No charge will be made for this service.

Mr. Williams has also made special arrangement for the residents of Spy Run avenue and the adjacent streets, who always have difficulty in getting to the park on account of the crowded condition of cars. Special cars for residents of this section of the city will leave the St. Mary's river bridge during the afternoon for the accommodation of those who are unable to find room on the regular cars.

GREAT WELSH TENOR COMING.

H. Evan Williams in Recital at Winona Lake Wednesday Evening.

Winona Lake, Ind., July 30.—The appearance of H. Evan Williams, the great Welsh tenor, in a recital at Winona on Wednesday evening is exciting much anticipation among music-lovers. Mr. Williams is recognized by all critics as one of the greatest living concert artists of the day. His beautiful tenor voice and broadened interpretative resources assure Winona audiences of one of the best programs of the season. In addition to his recital on Wednesday evening Mr. Williams will serve as adjudicator in the annual musical contest of Thursday and Friday, and as a soloist in the oratorio, "The Messiah," to be presented on Saturday evening.

There were one hundred graduates in the A and B. Teachers' Training courses at Winona college last week. With the beginning of the second half of the summer term on July 22 a number of new students enrolled, making a total of 675 for 1912. This is an increase of 20 per cent over the summer attendance of previous years. Thirty professors make up the summer faculty.

HAY FEVER ILLS QUICKLY RELIEVED

With a Cleansing, Healing Antiseptic Cream. Stops Sneezing Instantly.

Many people suppose there is no cure for Hay Fever and think, once one has had an attack, they must suffer every summer from haying time until frost comes. Some of the more fortunate seek relief in cooler climate, but thousands suffer at home, and often make their condition worse by using strong snuffs, powders and sprays.

There is no need of your being a victim of this disease any longer, and you don't have to run away to escape it either. Just get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, place a little in the nostrils, draw the pleasant, aromatic fumes back into the head and see how quickly you will get relief.

It opens up the air passages almost instantly, stops the sneezing, running at the nose and weeping. Furthermore, it doesn't simply give you temporary relief, but it heals and strengthens the sensitive membrane lining of the nose and throat, and restores it to normal, healthy condition, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble.

All druggists sell and recommend it. Get a bottle today. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give you back every cent you paid for it. Agents, Meyer Bros. Co.

HOW SAN DIEGO'S EXPOSITION WILL LOOK IN 1915.

WHEN MARSHALL WILL HEAR NEWS

Notification at Coliseum on State Fair Grounds, August 29.

WILSON IS INVITED

Indianapolis, July 30.—Democratic state leaders, at a four-hour session yesterday afternoon in the offices of the state committee in the Pythian building, set Aug. 20 as the date for the formal notification of Governor Marshall, of his nomination for vice president and decided to hold the meeting in the coliseum at the state fair grounds. It is planned to advertise the occasion widely, so that it will attract thousands of democrats from Indiana and other states. Governor Marshall, Thomas Taggart, S. M. Ralston and other democratic nominees attended the meeting.

An invitation will be sent by the state committee to Governor Woodrow Wilson, nominee for president, to attend the meeting and make an address. A telegram was sent late yesterday to Judge Alton B. Parker, chairman of the notification committee, which will tell the Indiana governor he is the party's choice for the second place, giving notice of the date fixed by the Indiana democrats.

Issues Are Discussed.

The purpose of the meeting yesterday, a call for which was issued some time ago by State Chairman Korbly, was to perfect organization plans, choose the issues that are to be made paramount by the democrats in the campaign and put the finishing touches to the organization of the party throughout the state.

The telegram, sent to Judge Parker from Governor Marshall's office, follows: "Tuesday, Aug. 20, has been designated as day for my notification, subject to your approval."

Judge Parker already had left the selection of the date practically in the hands of Governor Marshall.

Chairman Korbly will appoint several committees to arrange the details of the notification meeting, which will be planned as a national campaign opening by the democrats for the middle west. Committees on arrangements, entertainment, reception and others as needed will be named by the state chairman.

Several of the most prominent democrats in the country are expected to be present at the meeting, including William J. Bryan and others, it was said last night. The Indiana campaign is to be opened formally at a democratic rally at Anderson, Aug. 29, when Samuel M. Ralston will make the principal address.

Taggart Makes Speech.

Thomas Taggart suggested that the notification meeting be held in front of the clubhouse of the Indiana Democratic club on University square and that the square be terraced with seats. Another plan for the meeting, advanced by Mr Taggart, sought to utilize one end of the state house grounds for an outdoor meeting. Both plans were sidetracked because of the fear of inclement weather.

Mr. Taggart made a short address at the meeting, asserting that the hopes of democratic victory in the coming campaign should be high and urging the state candidates to beware of overconfidence just because "things seem to be coming your way." Governor Marshall left the meeting before it had continued an hour and went to his offices at the state house.

Among the discussions of campaign issues which arose at the meeting was that relating to registration law, and it was agreed that the present law must be amended at the coming session of the legislature. The criticisms of the statute, because of its heavy tax on the public treasury, were discussed, and it was decided that among the amendments should be one making some provision whereby residents outside the state temporarily might register without making a trip to Indiana for registration and another for voting.

FORMER SENATOR DIES.

William D. Washburn Passes Away at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 30.—Former United States Senator William D. Washburn, for many years prominent in the political life of the nation, and one of the leaders in the upbuilding of the northwest, died here shortly after 10 o'clock last night. He was 81 years of age.

Senator Washburn was in Europe when, after a six months' stay, his health began to fail alarmingly. He expressed a hope to die at his home here and the party hastened back to America and arrived in Minneapolis July 21, on a special train.

"SHADOW OF THE CROSS."

Many people of Fort Wayne who did not get opportunity to see the famous painting, "The Shadow of the Cross," last week will be delighted to learn that it will be on exhibition during the remainder of this week and next Sunday at 823 Calhoun street. The strange painting has created a sensation in Fort Wayne, where it is being shown by the Knights of Columbus for the benefit of St. Vincent's Orphans' home.

The painting is extraordinary, whether considered from a religious or artistic standpoint. This view is held by many who have witnessed it. Those who visit it not only derive educational value from it, but also assist in maintaining St. Vincent's home.

VILLAGERS ALL SUSPECT MURDER

Body at Catskill, N. Y., is Identified as That of Miss Snodgrass.

THE MISSING NURSE

Catskill, N. Y., July 30.—The body of the young woman found Monday afternoon in Dubois creek, near this village, was identified yesterday afternoon as that of Miss Dorcas I. Snodgrass, a nurse, who had been missing from the home of her sister in Mount Vernon, since July 17. The identification was made by Frederick Schmidt, the young woman's fiance, an electrical contractor, of Mount Vernon, and by Police Lieutenant M. I. Silverton, of the same place.

There are many theories advanced as to the events immediately preceding Miss Snodgrass' death and to the cause of death itself. Coroner Van Vanderburg has certified that "from the circumstances surrounding the case the cause of death was drowning." Local officers, however, are inclined to believe Miss Snodgrass was the victim of foul play. Lieutenant Silverton expressed the opinion that Miss Snodgrass died as the result of an accident.

Under a tree in the cemetery, with illumination furnished by automobile lamps, physicians last night performed an autopsy over Miss Snodgrass' remains. The physicians announced that the result would not be made public until after the information had been given to the district attorney.

Murder is the verdict of the townspeople in this village in the case of Dorcas I. Snodgrass, the missing nurse, for whom a search was conducted for twelve days.

At the request of a local newspaper man yesterday an undertaker examined the garments carefully and found them marked plainly with the name "D Snodgrass." This convinced even the most doubting that the dead woman was the missing nurse. Later a party of newspaper men, accompanied by the coroner and district attorney, made a careful search of the creek in the vicinity where the body was found.

Finds Hat of Dead.

The party was rewarded by finding the hat worn by the dead woman at the time she disappeared, with her hat pins still sticking in it as when it was worn in life.

Attached to the hat pins were strands of hair and some flesh, which would create the idea that the hat found at a distance of about 100 feet from the body, had been torn from her head. There were no abrasions or marks visible on the body.

People who are familiar with currents in this section of the state are unanimous in saying that Miss Snodgrass could not have floated into the spot where she was found from either the river or the creek itself, because of the shallow water in the tributary where the body lay.

It would have been practically impossible for a person to walk around through West Catskill and through the marshes where the body was found.

Suspect Yachting Parties.

While Detective Silberstein, of Mount Vernon, who reached here yesterday afternoon, disclaims any theory of foul play, the local people are positive that the body had been deposited there by one of the many yachting parties that have been at Catskill recently.

The belief of the residents here is supported by the fact that on July 18 a young woman, who now is said to answer the description of Miss Snodgrass, asked Harry Morris, a laundryman, to launder for her at once a tan skirt. The request was made that the skirt be delivered at once to the yacht May at the Dranla docks the following day. The skirt was ironed and delivered to the yacht by a small boy, who is unable to say whether the young woman who received it resembles the published photographs of Miss Snodgrass.

Anderson Man Accused of Cutting Up Capers at Indianapolis.

SOME INDIANA NOTES

Indianapolis, Ind., July 30.—Carl East, 27 years old, a prosperous retail hardware dealer of Anderson, Ind., was arrested last night after he is alleged to have beaten Miss Mary Dean, an eighteen year old girl, because she refused to accompany him on an automobile tour of the road houses.

A pair of glasses Miss Dean was wearing was broken, cutting her about the eyes. Her lips were bleeding when bicyclemen arrived.

"Hello, dearie," East is alleged to have said. "Want to take a ride in my auto? Just you and I?"

Miss Dean walked rapidly onward, but the alleged "masher" persisted, she said, and walked near her. He continued talking, she said, and finally, she said, seized her around the waist and attempted to force her to accompany him. She resisted and struck him sharply in the face as she struggled in his grasp. East was locked up in the city prison, charged with offending persons on the streets and assault and battery, and was held under $500 bond. Although he is said to possess means, he was without friends here and was unable to provide bond.

East attempted to evade recognition by giving the police his name as James C. Spears. East is married.

PROSECUTOR USES FISTS.

Newcastle Official Whips Man Who Theatened His Life.

Newcastle, Ind., July 30.—Angered at threats made against his life by "Tuck" Boheer, a former convict, Prosecutor Evans, of Henry county, when he encountered Boheer in the business district yesterday afternoon, proceeded to thrash him, and when he was done Boheer was considerably the worse for the meeting.

Prosecutor Evans stated that Boheer had told several that he intended to "kill Evans or shoot him in the back" and to the prosecutor Boheer admitted the threats and informed Evans he "had it in for him."

Boheer was sent to prison with five Jews for stealing a ton of copper wire from the I. N. C. & T. power house. He turned state's evidence on the promises of the prosecutor and the police that he would not be punished if they could help it, but Judge Jackson refused to heed their recommendations.

GEORGE ADE TO GIVE PICNIC.

Theodore Roosevelt Will Be Guest at September Gathering.

Kentland, Ind., July 30.—Shortly after his return from Europe next September, George Ade will give a big "political dinner" which, it is said, will eclipse in point of attendance and entertainment that given for President Taft and other republican candidates in 1908.

His brother Will, who has been with him on the continent, has just sailed for America and on his arrival will begin the preliminary arrangements. In a letter to his family he says that on his arrival he will hold a consultation with Theodore Roosevelt, who is to be a guest at the gathering. This is taken to mean that the affair will be one for the progressives.

OFFICER HINTS AT SCANDAL.

Resigns From Richmond Force and Investigation Is Avoided.

Richmond, Ind., July 30.—Officer Leroy Edwards, a member of the Richmond police department for a number of years, has tendered his resignation. Acting Superintendent McNally said yesterday that if Edwards had not resigned there would have been an investigation of his conduct, but now as far as he was concerned there would not be. Edwards declared that now that he had fallen, others would fall with him and one of them would be a prominent city official.

WOULDN'T STOP RAGTIME DANCE

Honolulu Belle Goes to Length of Defying Sea Captain.

WITH "TEXAS TOMMY"

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—The tradition that a sea captain is the king of his ship was sadly wrecked on the shoals of feminine scorn during the homeward voyage of the Korea, which arrived recently from the far east.

Capt. A. W. Nelson, master of the big steamer, is competent to navigate the seven seas or quell riots among oriental steerage passengers, but when it comes to prescribing how young lady travelers should dance, the skipper admits that he is sailing in strange and dangerous latitudes.

MISS EMELEEN MAGOON.

Miss Emeleen Magoon, granddaughter of Ah Fong, the famous Chinese millionaire of Hawaii, is the young lady who is credited with the achievement of having defied the steamer's skipper.

Miss Magon was so much the life of the ship that the nickname of "The Lark" was bestowed upon her.

The young woman's defiance of the skipper was not of such a nature as to warrant her being put in irons. In fact, that astute mariner deemed it best to let her have her way.

Word had gone about aboard the vessel that the captain had frowned on ragtime dancing, and while one of the dances was in progress, a Chinese orderly came to the merrymakers with a note from Captain Nelson, which put the official taboo on the entertainment.

"Well, of all things," the Honolulu belle is said to have exclaimed as she stamped her foot in the mazes of the "Texas Tommy," "who told our jolly captain that he was a social czar?"

So it seems that even a skipper, who has battled bravely with the elements and handled many dangerous situations during his career on the bounding main, found his match.

Miss Magoon claims the distinction of having introduced the "Texas Tommy" to staid inhabitants of the Hawaiian islands.

WIFE LEAPED FROM WINDOW TO ESCAPE

Husband Returned Drunk from Hartford City and Threatened Life of His Wife.

Hartford City, Ind., July 30.—To escape violence at the hands of her husband who threatened to cut her heart and hang it on the clothes line, Mrs. Coons, wife of a young farmer on the W. A. Curry farm, in Jackson township, jumped from an upstairs window at the home of Dennis Coons, an uncle, living three miles southwest of the city, and fled to a nearby corn field, where she remained hiding until Sheriff Townsend arrested and placed the drunken and belligerent Coons under arrest.

Charges of intoxication, assault and battery and carrying concealed weapons were filed against the farmer in Justice Lucas' court and he was assessed a total of $43. He languishes in jail vile, being unable to pay the fine. Mrs. Coons says she wants her husband prosecuted for assault and battery with intent to kill. She also states that she would bring an action for divorce.

Coons, with a razor in his hands, was searching in the corn field for his wife when the officer appeared on the scene, whereupon he started to run when he saw the sheriff. The officer threatened to shoot and as Coons stopped, and the husband and wife had beaten his wife and "bullied" the rest of the family, came cringing toward the sheriff and submitted to arrest.

Coons had been to Hartford City the day before and after filling himself with whiskey he returned home about midnight and abused and beat his wife. She locked herself in a room to get away from him. At the time she jumped through the window he was breaking down the door to the room.

T. W. Blair, of the Fort Wayne postoffice force, was an Antwerp visitor Sunday, renewing old acquaintances. Wes—as we villagers usually called him—had many old reminescences of the old factory days. Among them was one of the first fires in the town, after the purchase of the fire engine—one that had formerly done duty at Fort Wayne, and a relic of the days before the war. The alarm was sounded along in the quiet hours of the night. Wes was foreman of the hose cart and kept his trumpet—supposed to be the most necessary thing to have in case of a fire—near his bed. Hearing the alarm, he sprang from his bed and hastily getting on his clothes, looked for his trumpet, which usually stood on a table near by, but in the meantime had fallen to the floor and under the bed, which was awfully aggravating to a fireman—especially an officer, when he wants to make a quick run to the scene of conflagration. After a lengthy search the trumpet was found and Wes made a marathon run to the engine house. The fire was located in a frame blacksmith shop and had gotten a beautiful headway but the new engine and hose company fought desperately and were finally able to save the—anvil.

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Hughes, of Broughton, were the guests of Clide Goshorn and wife Sunday at this place.

Profs. Berg and Clark are home from Ada, to be in attendance at the teachers' institute, which is in session here this week.

Charley Herzer, of the state fire marshal's office, is home for a few days.

A trip through the country develops the fact that crops are looking fine, and that the farmer just at the present time is a little hurried in his work, oats harvest being ripe and the whirr of the binder is heard on all sides. Which is a sort of a hunch that it is pleasant, as well as profitable to be a resident where there are no crop failures.

Louie Wanamaker, of Defiance, was an Antwerp visitor Monday.

Hon. John S. Snook and wife and R. D. Webster and wife, of Paulding, were in attendance at the Chautauqua at this place Sunday.

Collie Lamb and Wallace Gorrell, of Payne, were Antwerp visitors Sunday and attended the Chautauqua.

The Case of Kansas.

That William Alden Smith's famous query, "What's the matter with Kansas?" ought to be unreservedly accorded rank as a perennial is further borne out by the newest occasion for its repetition, which is purely political. Out in the Sunflower state there is the loveliest sort of a fight in progress between the Taft and the Roosevelt factions, and the courts have already been called upon to virtually decide which of the warring factions is entitled to the name "republican" as a label for its ticket in the coming primary for the selection of presidential electors. The Kansas supreme court has declined to enjoin county clerks from printing upon the ballots under the name "republican party," the men who openly declare their intention to vote for Roosevelt in the electoral college, and the lieutenants of President Taft are now proposing to carry their case to the supreme court of the United States in order to have a review of the finding of the Kansas tribunal. Judged by reports from Kansas one is rather surprised to learn that there are enough Taft republicans left there to voice a vigorous protest against anything, and contemplating it from the Oyster Bay viewpoint it is rather surprising that the Roosevelt followers deem the word "republican" so essential to their success. The entire situation appears to be merely the Kansas way of doing things. Kansas is inevitably, uniformly and consistently original even in her political quarrels.

Mutsuhito, the emperor of Japan, who death has just occurred, unquestionably played a larger part in the real development and progress than any other in the long list of 120 rulers who preceded him on the throne of the island kingdom of the Orient. From almost the moment of his accession to the throne Mutsuhito began the acceptance of modern customs, largely European, and to him alone is due the fact that his nation has so largely broken away from the native narrowness that hemmed it in for centuries, and has climbed into rank as a real power among the nations of the earth. It requires a strong character to successfully overturn national customs and traditions hallowed by centuries of history and to lead a people into pathways of real progress. Mutsuhito left not only his own people but the world at large his debtor in many ways.

The senate committee on postoffices and post roads, has taken a ruthless smash at the Indiana proposition that Uncle Sam pay to this and other states an annual rental for the use of the highways over which his carriers travel in delivering mail to patrons along the rural free delivery routes. Uncle Sam is usually a patient old soul, but there are limits—there are limits.

With Albert J. Beveridge running for governor and Fred Landis the candidate for lieutenant governor on the progressive ticket in Indiana this year, the third party campaign isn't going to lack for oratorical emblazonry. These two alone are qualified to keep the political skies pretty continuously streaked with pyrotechnics.

After all, what is the use of being a successful alligator hunter in Northern Indiana if one's glory is going to be so heavily discounted after he has successfully bagged his game?

THE PRESS DISCUSSES PRICE PAID FOR SHOES.

"Depredation."

St. Louis Republic: "If the shoe machinery trust, moved by cogent fear, does pare its own claws, that will have no effect upon the gains accumulated during years of unlimited depredation. Its grip on banks, trust companies and the New England borrowing public will remain the same."

"Ultimate Consumer."

Chicago Record-Herald: "This is becoming a sad world for 'the ultimate consumer.' He must pay more for wearing apparel soon, for woolen cloth is also going up. Some of us may even have to give up automobiles if the high pressure continues; others may return to the barefoot stage, at least in summer."

"No Need of Anxiety."

Philadelphia Inquirer: "We are assured by those who ought to know that the price of shoes is not likely to increase more than a small sum on a few grades, and that the public has no need of anxiety on this subject."

"Competitive Basis."

Boston Herald: "The one manufacturing industry which has thus far escaped from the general tendency toward trust consolidation is that of boots and shoes. It is now maintained on a wholly competitive basis, and to a surprising extent the success of the different plants depends upon the personal calibre of the individual manpfacturer."

Protectionists.

Oakland Enquirer: "If the constant cry of the high protectionists has any foundation a decrease in duties would have the result of lessening the cost of shoes."

"Controls Patents."

Philadelphia Press: "The United Shoe Machinery company controls the entire range of patents in regard to shoes and decides the price at which shoes shall be made."

Leasing System.

Berkshire Eagle: "The argument is that instead of hindering trade the leasing system of the shoe machinery company helps trade, because a man can go into business on much less capital with leased machinery than if he had to buy it."

Hide Industry.

Indianapolis News: "The beef trust controls the hide industry and the shoe machinery trust has a clutch on the factories. With the automobile makers and the everyday public left to fight it out alone on what is left it is not hard to see who will get the worst of it."

MUNICIPAL POTATOES.

(Indianapolis News.)

The business of municipal ownership has been somewhat discredited by the attempts of some cities to overreach themselves. But Lafayette has opened up a new channel for activity and one which promises, even in its experimental stage, to be worth while. For the last two years there have been short crops of potatoes Perhaps the acreage and the yield were increased over preceding years, but in common with other foodstuffs, there were not enough potatoes to go round. Last year George R. Durgan, the mayor of Lafayette, proposed that the city should help the charity organizations in rather an unusual way. City prisoners in Lafayette are employed in chain gangs repairing roadways. As there was comparatively little work to do the gangs were idle a considerable part of the time.

The charity organization society during the previous winter had received a great many calls for food. Potatoes were scarce and costly, but being a staple food it was found difficult for market baskets to be sent out without a portion of potatoes. It occurred to the mayor to employ city prisoners, during part of their leisure time, in cultivating potatoes. Accordingly the charity society got permission from the owners to use a vacant piece of ground. The mayor furnished the seed and a man to plant it. Since then the city prisoners have cultivated the patch. The season has been exceptionally favorable and it is estimated that the harvest will total 750 bushels. These potatoes will be taken in charge by the charity society and distributed next winter as calls for help are received.

In Indianapolis the workhouse prisoners cultivate a garden within the prison grounds. This has been found to be profitable. In many penal and corrective institutions agriculture is employed to make the places self-supporting. In most cities the ordinary short time jail prisoners are allowed to "lay out" their time or are, as in the case in Lafayette, set to work repairing roads. Sometimes they are employed in the public parks, trimming the shrubbery and keeping the lawns clean. But undoubtedly much labor is never utilized. If Lafayette has found potato growing for charity a success it might find it profitable to engage further in the work as a means of keeping down prices later in the season. The production and sale of firewood form one branch of municipal activity in Germany. Why would not potato growing help many an American city?

WHAT THEY LIKE AND DON'T

Col. Roosevelt probably endorsed the recently promulgated third party platform of the New Jersey "progressives" and so this plank on the tariff becomes indicative and important:

"Where competition has been destroyed by monopoly, and the tariff is used to exact unjust tribute from the people it should be abolished."

There's hardly a trust that will go into spasms of terror over this proposition. Fact is that such monopolies as Standard Oil, the harvester and other trusts don't care a continental about tariffs, so far as competition is concerned. United States district attorney's offices are full of evidence showing how easily trusts kill competition, tariff or no tariff.

Very likely such as the Standard and harvester would really prefer free trade as a deterrent of new and independent domestic enterprise which would mean a sort of competition until their sell-out prices could be agreed upon.

No, your monopoly does not fear competition brought on by lower tariffs for the reason that it is entrenched monopoly. What the oil and iron monopolists fear is the sort of treatment that has been given the railroad corporations, the fixing of prices by government. If you want to hear a present-day monopolist holler, suggest that a limit be fixed on the price of oil, tobacco, ore, mowers and reapers, coal, etc., on a basis of the actual value of his plant.

THE CRIME OF BEING UNMARRIED.

(New York World.)

Why should busybodies feel forever called upon to preach at old bachelors and bachelor maids? It is nobody else's business if persons for reasons of their own choose to remain unmarried.

The Colorado minister who gave out a letter assumed to have been written by Miss Helen Gould in answer to personal strictures uttered in the course of a sermon from the pulpit, got off lightly for his impertinence. Why should he presume to offer gratuitous advice about how they should manage their lives to one woman or to thousands of men and women outside his acquaintance?

Marriage in any one case is a relation that concerns primarily only one man and one woman. To talk about being the duty of men and women to get married solely for the sake of being married is to put what the state and the church treat as a sacred relation on the most sordid basis. It is curious that people professing good morals, if not common sense, should advance such theories.

30,000 VOICES

And Many Are the Voices of Fort Wayne People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Fort Wayne people are in this chorus. Here's a Fort Wayne case.

Mrs. Josephine Yehl, 1835 Force St., Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "One of my family took Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be just what was needed. He suffered from severe pains across his back together with weakness of the kidneys. He used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and that was all that was needed to make a lasting cure. I advise anyone who had kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

C. L. Centlivre and Emmett Powers will sail for Paris early in August.

William Fleming has sold to the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church lot 109, north side, for $400.

Rev. D. S. Kennedy, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, has returned from his summer vacation.

Hon. and Mrs. F. J. Hayden and the Misses Hamilton left today for an outing at Maxinkuckee.

Waterworks Trustee Meyer is not in the city and is not a participant in the well supply discussions.

J. F. Wm. Meyer and family and Henry C. Paul and family have returned from a tour of the lakes.

The gentlemen working at the gas well on the Paul farm have not been to the city since yesterday. The well is getting very deep and a "gusher" is expected.

Workmen are laying track on Calhoun street for the new north side extensions of the street car line. The company will soon order fourteen new cars.

Professor C. F. W. Meyer announces that he has secured the services of Mrs. George J. E. Mayer, of Chicago, to conduct the department of voice culture in his successful school. Mrs. Mayer is a former resident of Fort Wayne.

The Centlivre street car line is completed from the bridge to within a short distance from the brewery. Three summer street cars will be shipped from St. Louis for the new line next Saturday.

Mayor Muhler, Chief Diehl, Councilmen Woulfe, Dochrman and Michael and Engineer John Schrader, of the fire department, went to Chicago this morning to examine the police fire alarm it is proposed to establish in this city.

Councilman Lahmeyer and a number of others were watering the young trees at Broadway park last evening. All the young trees in the city are suffering on account of the long dry season.

CUT TEETH FROM THROAT.

Surgeons Restore Girl's Health by Remarkable Operation.

New York, July 30.—Snatched from what seemed certain death and restored to the health which she enjoyed until a year ago by a remarkable surgical operation, Miss Mary Cremins, eighteen years old, of 226 West One Hundred and Twenty- escond street, is preparing to leave Suydenham hospital, where she was successfully operated upon four days ago for an ailment which for more than a year baffled some of the best surgeons in the city. Unknown to herself, the girl swallowed several closely bridged false teeth, which lodged in the lower part of her throat. Unable to eat and wasting away for want of nourishment, Miss Cremins went to the hospital a week ago and interested Dr. J. F. Amster, the house physician, in her condition. The following day several X-ray photographs were taken, the object in her throat was apparent in the photograph and it was decided to operate. Surgeons who previously had examined Miss Cermins insisted that her trouble was either cancer or a tumor. Some of them had gone so far as to tell her that an operation was hopeless.

The cars with the baby carriages will arrive at Robison park about 11 a. m. The carriages will be taken care of by Mr. Williams until claimed by the owners. The carriages will be returned to the street car barns on Holman street on Aug. 1, where the owners can claim them. 29-2t

SON GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE MOTHER

Rare Case of Anaemia is Conquered by Spectacular Operation.

WOMAN WILL RECOVER

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—The surgeon took one look at the face of the woman on the bed.

"Quick!" he said. "An ambulance!"

He had grappled many times with his old enemy, Death, and he had not often tasted defeat, but now—

The dying woman was taken to the Seattle General hospital. With her went her only son. When the operating table was reached, the surgeon looked squarely, questioningly into the eyes of the young man.

"Will I do?" the son asked.

"You'll have to do!"

For a long time Mrs. Mary E. Bates, wife of John H. Bates, a motorman, had known that an operation was inevitable. For years she had suffered from a curious phase of anemia, which a score of physicians had failed to diagnose correctly. Stripped of technical verbiage, the phase may be thus described: An acid had crept into Mrs. Bates' veins—an acid which corroded and pierced the walls of the veins, so that the blood escaped and showed in blotches beneath the skin.

Dr. Speidel was called to perform the operation.

"We must find a young man in perfect health," he said, "who will be willing to give us his blood. For only by transfusion of healthy blood into the veins of the patient can she be saved."

The search began. Money inducements were offered. It is not strange that the candidates were few. And Dr. Speidel was hard to please. For the applicant must have exactly the right kind of blood—blood that would assimilate readily.

Then, last Friday night, while her husband was at work, Mrs. Bates collapsed. With her were her son, William A. Bates, an accountant and the housekeeper.

The patient's face was bloodless. She was in that state of coma which is the threshold of death.

"You'll have to do!" snapped the surgeon to the son.

Without an instant's hesitation, the son stretched himself on the operating table beside his mother. Doctors and nurses flocked around, aquiver with professional interest in this rarest and most spectacular of operations.

No anaesthetic was administered, for that would lessen the heart action. As for the woman, she was so near death as to be impervious to pain. But the son, young, strong, full of life, winced in agony when the first deep incision was made. After that he clenched his teeth, shut his eyes, and—endured!

Dr. Speidel worked quickly, surely. The young man's radial artery was opened at the wrist and bound to the vasilic vein above the elbow of his mother.

In matter of fact tones the surgeon explained to his audience his method as he deftly linked the two ducts, very much as a plumber would join two pipes.

The son's heart did its duty. It pumped. And then—

The miracle!

As the young blood was transfused into the old veins, a flush, faint at first, appeared in the mother's cheeks. Slowly, slowly, the white lips turned red. Slowly, slowly, the lobes of the ears showed rosily pink. The lack-luster eyes opened, and in them were life and hope. She smiled.

The young heart pumped on. And as it pumped, the son's face turned chalky white. His eyes closed listlessly.

It lasted half an hour—thirty minutes, and each an eternity.

"It is over," said Dr. Speidel. "We were just in time. An hour later, and——" He shrugged his shoulders.

William Bates is back at his desk, adding up columns of figures in his ledger. There is a bandage around his wrist, and his face is a little pale. His mother is recovering rapidly, and there is good reason to hope that she will soon yet enjoy perfect health.

ANTS TIE UP TRACTION LINE.

Insects Ground Current When Attacking Power House Transmitter.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 30.—An army of ants, attracted by the grease and oil, attacked a transmitter at the Goodrum power house and grounded the current, tying up traffic on the Valparaiso & Northern electric line five hours. All power was shut off until the machinery could be freed of the mass of smashed ants.

St. Vincent's annual picnic will be held at Academy Grove August 4th. Everybody invited. 27-3

Alva Peters Bound Over to Circut Court Under $2,000 Bond.

FOR STEALING MEAT

When Alva Peters, who was arrested last Friday night, charged with stealing meat from the Weller meat market, on Spy Run avenue, appeared in police court this morning, he tried to convince Special Judge Ballou that he was doing the good frined act at the time of the arrest and was simply carrying the large quantity of meats for another man. His story was really a good yarn to listen to, but it did not sound true, so he was bound over to the circuit court under bond of $2,000.

Elgie Netterfield, whose wife charged him with desertion, told the court this morning that he had filed suit for divorce in the circuit court so the case was continued until September 2, after the court convenes, and until that date he is to pay his wife the sum of $3 each week.

Byron Thompson, of 2615 Broadway, on an affidavit charging that he failed to clean a vault on his property, was told to appear again August 5. In the meantime he is to waste no time in cleaning his property. The affidavit was filed by Sanitary Officer C. P. Josse.

Was a Bad Man From West.

Charles Griffin, who got fresh with Chief Dayton Abbott last night and told him that he was a "bad man from the west," explained to the court that he was really from Toledo, and told the judge that all he did was drink whisky. He was given $1 and costs.

John McNally was fined $5 and costs for intoxication and insulting women, and Ralph Johnson was fined $1 and costs for intoxication. Bud Slater, a drunk, had his case continued indefinitely, and John Green and Walter McConnell, drunks, were turned loose.

John Reece, George Jennings, Charles Reece, John Cheviron, Daniel Driscoll and William Gonden, all charged with loitering, were let go. The case of Charles Allen, arrested on a similar charge, was continued one day. The case of Henry Williams, a vag, was continued indefinitely.

Robert Snyder, charged with attempting to defraud a boarding house keeper out of $7, pleaded not guilty, but witnesses who testified showed that the young man had been living beyond his income and that he refused to pay his debts. He was fined $5 and costs.

Frank Morgan, who started a fight on a street car last night, was fined $1 and costs and Ben Moore was given a similar fine for intoxication.

The case of Fred Kanne, charged with neglecting his child, was continued until Friday.

centers in the probably disclosure of Mrs. Grace's defense.

Developments along this line are expected when the status of Rebecca Sams, a mulatto dressmaker, is explained. Her name was brought into the record yesterday, but her connection with the shooting was not indicated.

Daisy Causes Sensation.

Also it was indicated that Mrs. Grace will try to show that her husband is not paralyzed from the waist down. During the proceedings yesterday she created a mild sensation when she remarked to an attorney, "Watch Gene's legs move." When questioned about the twitching of his limbs, Grace attributed it to reflex action. "If anyone thinks I am feigning helplessness," he said, "I'll allow them to stick a pin in my body. If I bat an eye I'll submit to any punishment."

Grace went through the ordeal of the trial's initial day better than his physicians expected. His nervous condition, however, is indicated by fear of death. He has appealed to city detectives for protection in the court room.

"I don't trust that woman and I fear her friends still more," he is quoted as saying.

Woman Is Unaccompanied.

Grace again was present at the trial today in spite of the intense heat in the court room. Mrs. Grace came to court unaccompanied. She wore a black silk dress, a new Parisian "pompadour panier" creation. Her head was almost completely hidden from the curious crowd, mostly women, by an expensive Panama hat.

The prosecution attempted in vain to secure the admission as testimony of a conversation between Grace and his wife which Dr. Goldsmith overheard at the hospital on the night of Mrs. Grace's arrest. The jury was excluded while the point was argued.

"We intend to try to show," exclaimed Solicitor Dorsey, "that the first suggestion made by any one that Mrs. Grace had shot her husband was made by Mrs. Grace herself. When they met in the hospital practically her first words were: 'Gene, how can you accuse me of shooting you?' Up to that time no one ever had intimated that she had."

Judge Roan ruled that Dr. Goldsmith's testimony on this point was not admissible at this time.

The prosecution apparently attached some weight to a statement made by Mrs. Hill that Mrs. Grace had offered to lend her a black dress, which she had brought with her in her suit case. The defense objected to the admission of this statement.

"We expect to show," said Solicitor Dorsey, "that Mrs. Grace went to Newman with a black dress, so that if the information reached there before Friday, the day she was to return, that Grace was dead, she would have a mourning gown."

COLONEL IS TO KEYNOTE MONDAY

Roosevelt Will Deliver an Address at Chicago Coliseum.

INVITATION TO TAFT

Chicago, July 30.—Theodore Roosevelt will sound the keynote of the campaign of the new progressive party in an address at the Coliseum next Monday night.

Arrangements for this meeting were made yesterday by the committee in charge of the plans for the third party convention which opens Monday noon. The night gathering will be distinct from the regular sessions of the convention, although tickets to the latter will be good for admission to the mass meeting.

Colonel Roosevelt is expected to reach Chicago Monday. His speech in the evening will mark the first public appearance during convention week unless he chooses to attend the opening session during the day.

In order to emphasize the fact that the new party is drawing its support from the ranks of both the republican and democratic parties the arrangements committee determined upon a unique decorative feature. Photographs of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln, whose pictures are found at all republican gatherings, will be hung on the Coliseum walls side by side with those of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson, whose teachings form the basic doctrines of the democratic party. Photographs of George Washington as father of his country and Theodore Roosevelt as the founder of the new party also will be conspicuously displayed.

The progressives declare they are obtaining daily new converts from the democratic party. The latest avowal of allegiance to the new party comes from William Prentiss, a lifelong democrat, and a retired Chicago lawyer. Mr. Prentiss once was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Illinois. He has been an active Bryan follower.

Ralph C. Otis, chairman of the arrangements committee for the progressive convention: has sent invitations to President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Governor Wilson and Governor Marshall to attend. Mr. Otis does not expect a favorable reply.

was one of the purposes of the Sherman anti-trust act to prevent practices of this sort; however, there can be little doubt that in fact this practice still continues. It is alleged that the so-called Gary dinners just as effectively did away with competition and established uniform prices as the older and more illegal form of agreements had done."

Another "device now resorted to, to eliminate competition," he declared, was that of "hiding behind the patent right." He referred to a recent supreme court decision, under which the "user of a patented article may be required to buy supplies of a certain make and pay the price imposed."

Progress as Factor.

In regard to the progress of the age as a factor in high prices, Senator Burton said that "the conveniences and luxuries of one generation are regarded as necessities in the next. Even in humble homes a standard of living is made possible which was beyond the fondest hopes entertained by generations that have scarcely passed away." Better homes, food and clothing; the desire for a wider outlook, which is afforded by a higher education, and an insistent demand for leisure and amusement, were elements, he said, which were adding to the burden of life on the cost side, although aiding it in many other ways. He quoted figures showing a marked increase in the consumption of staple articles, such as cotton, corn, sugar and so on, and then added that expenditures for luxuries showed a much higher percentage of increase.

The rapidly growing cost of government—national, state and municipal—was adding to the cost of life, he said; the expenditure of the federal government having increased 122 per cent from 1890 to 1910.

"To these must be added," Senator Burton continued, "the oppressive burden of military and naval armaments, now involving a cost to the civilized nations of $2,000,000,000 a year, an economic waste which imposes an almost unendurable burden upon the world's resources. The expense of the naval establishment of the United States for the year 1890 was $22,006,206; in 1910 it was $123,178,717."

As to increase in municipal taxation rates, he quoted from New York city statistics, showing that the per capita tax rate there had increased 71 per cent from 1890 to 1910.

Speaking of the "unequal progress in the different lines of endeavor that supply human wants," Senator Burton said that "it is evident that science working through invention and improved methods has not accomplished the same result in agriculture as in manufactures. Although considerable progress has been made in the transportation of agricultural products to the market and in preserving them for use, these pertain to transportation and to the middleman rather than to the original producer. Improvements in agricultural implements have been very considerable, but have wrought no revolution such as has been manifest in many processes of manufacture. In addition he called attention to the "growing scarcity of new lands suitable for profitable cultivation." In connection with the farm, he spoke of the movement of population cityward from the country as a distinctive feature of modern life.

The diminishing supply of lumber in the face of unusual demand, he continued, has caused a rapid and continuous increase in the price of products of the forests.

As to extravagance and waste, he declared that it was the inevitable tendency in every progressive era.

has spent nearly all his life as "a close associate of alligators," as Mr. Shulze puts it.

"The reptile bled freely," says the authority on 'gators, "and this could not have happened if the specimen had been dead before it was shot."

Mr. Schulze was made acquainted with the circumstances concerning the alligator's supposed death at the carnival and the fact that it lay on its side motionless for a long time before being pronounced dead. At this he laughed heartily, and added, "Well, I might explain this by telling one of many incidents which occurred during the years that I lived at Denison, Texas. One day my wife and I were boating on the bayou, and it was amusing to see the alligators drop and glide off into the water as we approached. Finally, Mrs. Schulze asked me to go ashore and cut some palm leaves, but I declined to do so because of the prevalence of the alligators. However, the alligators always disappear when they hear a noise, and so, after thrashing around and making a lot of racket, I went ashore and began to cut the palms when I happened to run onto an alligator partly covered with leaves. He was lying on his side, with one front leg and one hind leg sticking up in the air, and his body was covered with flies. To all appearance he was one of the deadest thing I ever saw. Well, sir, I flopped him over with my foot, and shoved him around, when all of a sudden he woke up and made a bee-line for the water. Say, but I certainly did get back into that boat. So, it seems to me that the carnival people may have thought their alligator was dead when he wasn't."

MINNESOTA PICKS DELEGATES.

St. Paul, July 30.—The third party is being brought into existence in Minnesota today, nearly 500 supporters of Col. Roosevelt having met in convention here to select delegates to the Chicago convention next week and formulate plans for the campaign in this state, which it is expected will begin actively as soon as the Chicago meeting has adjourned. According to previously laid plans of the leaders of the movement, all mention of state politics is being carefully avoided.

CHICAGO OVER AGAIN.

Lincoln, Neb., July 30.—When the executive committee of the republican state central committee met today but one contest case—that of the delegates from Furnas county—remained to be presented. All of the other eight had been submitted before the committee recessed for the night. The Taft men were believed to have a majority of the executive committee favorable to their attitude, which is that the Roosevelt men are no longer members of the republican party and the latter were predicting that the action taken here would be a parallel to that in Chicago.

SEARCH STILL GOES FORWARD

Becker and thus to implicate any men "higher up" they have not so indicated in any way. There has been much talk of higher officials in the department being involved," but District Attorney Whitman said today that as yet he had absolutely no evidence involving men above Becker. "If I had any such evidence," he said, "I should ask for their indictment."

The three informers, Rose, Webber and Vallon, at their special request, will not be locked up with Becker. Meanwhile the search will go on for the men who are alleged to have fired the shots that killed Rosenthal.

"Lays Bare the "System."

The indictment and arrest of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, soon after the confessions of "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, revealed today to District Attorney Whiteman the "police system" in all its hideousness. The public prosecutor, following the trail of the three confessions, continued his search for evidence that would implicate those higher up than Becker and more indictments of police officials are expected by this district attorney.

Herford Marshall, counsel for "Jack Sullivan" (Jacob Reich), the go-between between Lieutenant Becker and Jack Rose, now held in the Tombs in connection with the case, announced this morning that Sullivan was ready to tell all he knew on the witness stand and that his story would prove more astounding than any yet told. Sullivan, he said, would not talk to either the police or the district attorney.

Lays Bare Big Scandal.

The arrest of Becker lays bare a scandal in the police department that threatens to shake it to its foundations, for District Attorney Whiteman believes the story of police graft has only half been told.

"Bald Jack" Rose confessed that Becker came to him and fairly desperate over Rosenthal's intention of telling all he knew of his relations with the police lieutenant, said: "Rosenthal has lived too long. He has got to be put out of the way." Rose told the public prosecutor and the grand jury how the murder band was hired at the instigation of Becker, and that after the killing, Becker met Webber and himself and promised complete police protection.

The confessions show that the murderers of Rosenthal were "Lefty Louie" or Louis Rosenzweig; Harry Horowitz, or "Gib the Blood;" Frank Muller or "Whitie Jack" Lewis and "Dago Frank" Cirofici. Only Cirofici has been apprehended.

Terror-stricken Rose, Webber and Vallon spent the night in the public prosecutor's office, fearing that they would be murdered if they were taken to the Tombs prison.

Believes Case Flawless.

District Attorney Whiteman believes that his case against Lieutenant Becker is without flaw; that the confessions taken separately, dovetailed and confirmed each other and that from the testimony from other witnesses the case against Becker cannot be broken down.

"Bald Jack" Rose, gambler, who says he was Becker's gambling house collector, felt the ground slipping from under him day by day. Without money or friends, he realized that he was being made to bear the weight of the crime alone. His counsel advised him to confess. Rose became completely terrified. To his counsel, James M. Sullivan, he said:

"If you see to it that my wife and children are protected, I'll come across and tell the truth about this. I am afraid it will be the end of me. No cell on earth will be strong enough to keep the life in a man who gives up about this killing."

Intimations were made to Rose that an indictment might be expected against him and then he confessed. Counsel for Webber and Vallon, catching the drift of things, also advised their clients to tell all the truth and become immunized. Rose told District Attorney Whitman for a long time he had been Becker's gambling house collector, that Becker as head of the gambling house squad, smelled out profitable places, and that each month collections were made. Becker did not get all the money, Rose says, but some of it was distributed to others.

Rosenthal was a thorn in Becker's side. Becker had pressed Rosenthal to the wall, according to Rose, and Rosenthal threatened to make things public.

Becker Sent for Him.

Six weeks before the killing, Rose says, Becker sent for him and said that Rosenthal must be made away with. Rose flinched at the words, he says, and Becker, noting his state of mind, remarked, according to Rose:

"Now, there is no use getting worried or nervous about this job. That dog has made too much trouble. What do you think I am in this department for? I can do what I — please. I'll see to it that nobody gets into serious trouble. Now you go out and do whatever is necessary."

Rose says he went out and saw "Big Jack" Zeelig to make a deal for his gun men. Zeelig was under indictment for carrying concealed weapons, and the possibilities of a stay in Sing Sing prison did not appeal. Consequently, Rose says, "he promised to see that nothing happened when Zeelig came to trial. There was no trouble getting the gun men. It was at this point in the proceedings that Rose backed somewhat out of the murder activities. All the gun men were informed to be ready to kill Rosenthal, who, in the meantime, had been shadowed day and night. A few days before the killing, Rose says, he met Webber and Becker and while the three were talking it over, Becker said to Webber:

"This job has got to be done, and Rose says they won't do it for him. Now 'Bridgie' you can get it done. They all know you. You have got the money and I have got the power. I'll protect everybody."

Treats by Becker.

Then Becker, according to Rose's confession, shook his fist in their faces and exclaimed:

"If you don't do this I'll put weapons on every one of you. I'll send you up for seven years. I'll show you what you'll get."

Rose and Webber say they believed that Becker would send them away and had the power to do it. Then the murder plot unfolded itself quickly. Monday night came and with it the word for the gun men to get together. Rose told how he got the assassins together and how, after the killing, he went over to the Hotel Metropole to see how the job had been done.

Rosenthal lay dead upon the sidewalk with a tablecloth spread over his body. Rose says he went to a telephone booth and called up Lieut. Becker, but he was so unnerved by the shock he could only gasp:

"My God, this is horrible."

"Don't Worry" Said Becker.

Becker, Rose says in his confession, replied over the wire in a steady voice:

"Oh, don't worry, I'll protect you. Wait a few minutes and I'll be right down. Where will you be?"

An appointment was made to meet at Forty-second street, within a short distance of the scene of the murder. There, Rose says, he met Webber and Becker, and Webber corroborated the Rose statement. They talked over what was the best thing to do under the circumstances and parted after Becker had assured them that everything would be all right.

The chase for the slayers became hot and finally Rose says that Becker advised him over the telephone to surrender, but that everything would come out all right.

Of the real murderers Rose says in his confession:

"Those poor devils did not know what they were doing. They were full of 'booze;' they had been told to kill, and they went out and did what they were told."

Others Supply Missing Links.

Webber and Vallon in their confessions supplied many missing links in the confession of Rose. Speaking of Becker and his alleged connection with gambling, Rose said:

"Why, of course I was Becker's collector. Everybody knew it."

Webber himself says that his protection payments for his gambling house to Becker throughout were $125 a month.

Lieut. Becker, who has been suspended, spent a quiet night in the Tombs. "This is an awful plight for an innocent man to find himself in," he said this morning.

The three prisoners, Rose, Webber and Vallon, were still in a state of terror today, though locked in a room in the district attorney's office and guarded by a squad of detectives. Webber was hysterical and frequently wept during the night.

Created a Sensation.

The confession of Rose and the arrest and indictment of Becker created a sensation in the police department and officials and patrolmen alike wondered who would be the next to be involved in the disclosures of the relations between the police and the gamblers. That an investigation would be undertaken by the city into the police department appears to be a foregone conclusion. District Attorney Whitman said:

"I am well pleased with the progress we have made. I think it has been a good day's work. I am not in a position to talk about the grand jury proceedings but statements made to me were startling in the extreme and I am bound to say that each of them seemed amply corroborated. I think this is the beginning. I hope to clean up the whole affair."

What Dougherty Says.

George S. Dougherty, second deputy police commissioner, was the first official to reach headquarters this morning.

"I have never had any supervision over Lieut. Becker," he said. "He and his work were outside my jurisdiction. Rose said 'I was afraid that Dougherty was Becker's friend and did not want to take any chances.' Becker was evidently telling Rose that he, Becker, could even square Dougherty, everybody—the district attorney, all of which are—lies as far as I know or am concerned.

"When the investigation is finished it will be determined that I never had any relations with Becker. Everyone within or outside of the police department knows that I have positively nothing to do with gambling."

Taking up his part in the pursuit of the murderers, Dougherty said it was he who directed the arrest of Shapiro and Libby, whose "gray automobile" has figured so prominently in the case, and that it was he who learned from Shapiro that it was Rose who hired the car and that he (Dougherty) was the first to learn that Vallon and Schepp rode in the car with Rose to "Bridgie" Webber's place.

Urged Rose Confession.

Continuing the deputy commissioner said: "I urged Counsellor Sullivan to get Rose to make a statement. He kept telling me he did not think it was good policy for Rose to confess, as he would probably incriminate many people in the police department, intimating that I and the other commissioners would not want him to confess.

"Notwithstanding Sullivan's statement, I continued to impress upon him the necessity of doing what he could to clear up the situation.

"Mr. Sullivan, District Attorney Whiteman, Inspector Hughes and myself had conferences about Rose making a statement. I brought about, through Aaron J. Levy, an agreement to have Shapiro testify and I told Mr. Whiteman that the first man to confess, in my opinion, would be Rose.

"I secured the first incriminating statement from every one of the prisoners and it was on my evidence that they were all held.

"Didn't they have me on the stand all day?

"In short, I co-operated with the district attorney day in and day out. The district attorney could promise and grant immunity where I could not."

Commissioner Waldo, upon reaching headquarters, said he had no statement to make.

strength and capacity of the small boats, had intended to complete their loading after they were launched. The disproportion of the passengers of the different classes among those saved was due to the fact that many of those in the third class were foreigners and to the position of their quarters.

What Court Recommends.

The recommendations of the court include the following:

"The board of trade should investigate the practicability of providing sea-going ships, in addition to the water tight transverse bulkheads, with a double skin carried above the water line or with a longitudinal vertical water tight bulkhead on each side of the vessel, or with both.

The court recommends that the British board of trade be empowered to require that the designs of ships should be submitted to it during the early stages of their construction and should have, at the same time, power to direct changes to be made.

Another recommendation is that the life boat and raft accommodations on sea going vessels be based on the number of persons carried instead of on the tonnage of the ship.

The court thinks changes may be necessary in the size and type of boats carried by ships and in the methods of stowing and launching them.

The court recommends that the lifeboats be provided with signalling apparatus, with a compass and with provisions, and that the number each boat is intended to carry should be plainly marked.

The court suggests that an international convention be called to agree on a common rule for the sub-division of ships, also as to life-saving apparatus, wireless regulations, speed in the ice regions and the use of searchlights.

Ismay and Duff-Gordon.

Lord Mersey said it was not the business of the court to inquire into attacks on the moral conduct of Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon and J. Bruce Ismay, but silence on the part of the court might be misunderstood. He continued: "The very gross charge against Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon that he bribed the boatmen to row away from drowning people is unfounded. At the same time, I think if he had encouraged the men to return to where the Titanic had foundered they probably would have made an effort to do so and could have saved some lives."

"The attack on J. Bruce Ismay," concluded the judge, "resolved itself into the suggestion that occupying the position of managing director of the line, some moral duty was imposed upon him to wait on board until the vessel foundered. I do not agree. Mr. Ismay, after assisting many of the passengers, found the last boat on the starboard side of the Titanic actually being lowered. No other people were there at the time. There was room for him and he jumped in. Had he not done so he would merely have added one more life to the number lost."

In conclusion Lord Mersey severely blamed the British board of trade for its failure to revise the shipping rules of 1894.

SENATOR SMITH COMMENTS.

Pleased to Find Much in Accord With American Findings.

Washington, July 30.—Senator William Alden Smith, chairman of the senate committee which investigated the Titanic disaster here and in New York, today made this comment upon the verdict of Lord Mersey's court:

"The British inquiry evidently has been thorough and painstaking. I am glad to know that upon many of the points the senate committee and Lord Mersey's court are in accord.

"For instance, the British court, as well as the American committee, justly criticised the speed of the ill-fated ship as it approached the ice field, of which Captain Smith was fully advised. The inexplicable conduct of the officers of the Californian must have strongly impressed the British court from the language of its report.

"As to Mr. J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line, and Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon, I do not desire to express my opinion. Both are prominent British subjects and it would not be becoming in me to criticise their conduct. What the British report says of Mr. Ismay might have been said of Captain Smith, First Officer Murdock and Mr. Andrews, the builder of the ship, who evidently took a different view of their responsibilities."

Wednesday evening. The session is to be held in his office in the Pixley-Long block.

"The committeemen will receive instructions regarding the primary election Friday evening for the selection of delegates, and at the same time workers for the different precincts will be selected to conduct the task of organizing for the compaign," said Mr. Houk. "I expect to see a large attendance and an interesting meeting."

Noble County Progressives.

Progressives of Noble county, at a meeting Monday, elected delegates to the state convention and authorized the county chairman to appoint delegates to the congressional convention if necessary. Resolutions were also adopted which repudiate the Chicago national convention, endorsing Theodore Roosevelt for president and Albert J. Beveridge as governor of Indiana. The following were selected as delegates to the state convention:

Albion township, C. R. Shirk and John Cory; Allen township, David Smith and George W. Tyler; Elkhart township, William Huston and C. S. Peters; Green township, Arthur Budd and D. J. Graumlick; Jefferson township, J. N. Harvey and Harrison Norris; Noble township, Scott Galloway and F. L. Fryer; Orange township, J. M. Schermerhorn and C. W. Officers were elected for the ensuing year, William McKeeman being chosen as president, Dr. R. B. McKeeman, vice president; Miss Bertha Dauer, secretary and treasurer; committee on arrangements, David McKeeman, Mrs. Robert Mercer and Charles Shearer; committee on entertainment, Robert Mercer, Miss Marie McKeeman and Miss Alberta McKeeman; committee on resolutions, Mrs. L. P. Merillat, Mrs. R. B. McKeeman and Mrs. Ellen Essig. An interesting address was given by Rev. English and short talks were made by John Hooker, Dr. Charles Wyhourn and Robert Mercer. Resolutions of condolence were passed on the death of one member of the family, Margaret May Shearer. There was no music, as certain parts of the planned program were omitted in respect of the recent bereavement in the family. A group picture of the company was taken. Members present from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKeeman and family, Mr. and Mrs. David McKeeman and family, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. McKeeman and family, Mrs Ellen Essig, Mr. and Mrs. Alex McKeeman and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Merrilat and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Felger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mercer and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Merillat and family, Mr. Russell Shearer and son, Mrs. Wm. Wybourn, Mr. and Mrs. John Wybourn and the Misses Pearl Merillat, Mary Peters and Bertha Dauer, and Mr. George Merrilat. Those from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mercer and son, Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Mercer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Shearer and family, all of Poe, and Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Wybourn, of Ossian. Visiting guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Horton and Miss Clara Renkensmeier, of this city; Rev. English, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Emrick, Mrs. Elmer Mizer and son, all of Hoagland; Mr. and Mrs. John Rooker and daughter and Miss Olive Hocker, of Monroe, and Miss Etta Comer, of Poe.

Altekruse Family Gathering.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Altekruse, nine miles north of the city, was celebrated last Sunday the birthday anniversary of Frederick Altekruse. Mr. Altekruse has now passed the eighty-seventh birth anniversary and nearly all of the fifty-six members of his family were present at the Sunday gathering. Mr. Altekruse was born in Germany but has passed nearly all of his life in Indiana. A bountiful dinner and supper were served the company, who included besides the host and his wife and children Albert, William, Fred, John and the Misses Clara, Minnie, Catherine, Frances and Helen, Mrs. Carrie Benz, Mr. Carl Benz, Chester Benz, Miss Lillie and Miss Lucela Benz, Mr. and Mrs. Will Kroemer and sons, Clarence, Will and Walter, and Miss Gertrude, Florence, Jenette and Dorothy Kroemer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Altekruse and son, Will, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Altekruse, Mrs. Emma Altekruse, Ernest, Robert and Henry Altekruse, Martin Altekruse, Miss Florence Altekruse, Mrs. Amelia Altekruse, Arthur Altekruse, Miss Henrietta and Miss Esther Altekruse, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weischberger, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Peters and son, Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Peters, Mrs. M. Auer, Edward Auer and Miss Lillian Auer, Miss Rose Long, K. Brown and from Terre Haute, Mrs. J. Girder and Mrs. John Altekruse.

Teagarden—Wefel.

A quiet wedding took place on Monday morning at the parsonage of Bethany Presbyterian church when Miss Emma Wefel and Mr. Edward Teagarden were married by Rev. C. O. Shirey. Neither bride nor groom were attended. The bride wore a handsome suit of pongee silk trimmed with heavy lace and a touch of green in its trimmings and a hat of the same coloring and lace to match that of the gown. Gloves and shoes were of a darker shade of tan. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom went to Lake James, where they have rented a cottage for two weeks. On their return they will go to housekeeping in an apartment in Westminster flats which is already furnished. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ball were the witnesses at the ceremony and drove them to Lake James in their automobile. The bride is a sweet and interesting young woman who has many warm friends. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wefel, of Masterson avenue. Mr. Teagarden is a son of Mrs. Alice Teagarden, of West Main street. He is a Nickel Plate engineer and stands high in the estimation of all who know him.

Clemens—Asbury.

Mr. Fred E. Clemens, of Indianapolis, and Miss Mabel E. Asbury, of this city, were married on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. J. A. Beatty, superintendent of the Fort Wayne M. E. district, at his residence in South Webster street. The bride's mother and sister, who live here, were the witnesses. The groom is an automobile mechanician and with his bride returned to Indianapolis, where they will live.

Kelty—Sheets.

Miss Clara Sheets and Mr. Thomas Kelty were married at 7 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church by Rev. J. F. Delaney. The bride is an orphan and the wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. Kelty's mother, who lives in East Pontiac street.

Billie Burke

ON WOMANLINESS

MISS BILLIE BURKE.

The first word: "Womanliness always attracts."

Many young girls seem to think it is a mark of popularity to be called "a good fellow," or a "good sport." They think that a man likes best a young woman who will drink a cocktail at a restaurant before her dinner, as a matter of course, and, perhaps, smoke a cigarette on the sly; who will, perhaps, laugh at a slightly risque story and whose conversation is interlarded with slang. I do not believe there is a man in America who would like to have any young woman of his own family do these things.

A man may aid and abet any other woman than those he cares about making herself conspicuous or even ridiculous. If a girl really cares for her reputation among men, she should be very particular that her qualities as a woman are most in evidence. Gentleness—charitableness, and sympathy are the three qualifications which are sure to make a man the friend of the woman who has them.

You may be as witty as possible but your smart remarks must not have a tinge of rancor or sarcasm. You may know that you are far more clever than some of your girl friends but you must not let the idea become general that you think so. You may have little in common with many of your acquaintances, but while you are with them it is not necessary to make them feel this.

To do this, you do not have to lose one jot of your sincerity or your frankness. All you must learn to do is to look for the best in everyone and remember that the woman who is sympathetic with all humanity gets the most out of life.

Men have not yet gotten to the plain where they regard women as human beings.

Notwithstanding the long and loud appeal from the suffragettes for them to do so, we are still woman and women only to them. Until they do a clever woman will put forward her womanly traits first and have them paying her a distinct homage that they never give to each other.

Just one last word: It is the womanly woman who not only rocks the cradle but rules the world.

WOOED BY MAIL BUT CANNOT WED

Chicago Court Holds a Would-Be Bride to Investigate Case.

CUPID IS FOILED

Chicago, July 30.—A marriage license, fourteen love letters, and a lawyer failed to get a wife yesterday for William H. Failing, head of the Kensington Electric company. Judge Richard E. Burke, of the superior court interrupted, temporarily at least, his "correspondence school" wooing. Now Failing is brideless, while his intended bride is the ward of the juvenile court at the Annex—Clark street, not Auditorium.

Miss Ida Adele Dukes, of Brooklyn, a 19-year-old girl, who came to Chicago Saturday prepared to marry Failing, whom she knew through a dozen or more love letters and his photographs, announced from the stand she was ready for the ceremony. Failing, a license in one hand and his love letters in the other, apparently was just as eager to hear the wedding bells.

Mother on Coast; Futher in Japan.

Miss Dukes, whose mother is in California and whose father is a teacher of languages in Japan, resides with a brother at 55 Park avenue, Brooklyn. While a nurse at a sanitarium at Stanford, Conn., she put an advertisement in a paper asking to correspond with an "honorable man, intention matrimony." Failing answered. Many letters and photographs were exchanged, and finally Failing, who resides at 12039 State street, sent her money to come to Chicago to marry him. She started, but lost her ticket and had to return home. Once more the money was sent, and the girl started. Her brother, however, wired the police to investigate the character of Failing, and, if it was questionable, to hold the girl. She was arrested as her train arrived in Chicago. Capt. Halpin, of the detective bureau, says until recently Failing lived with a woman now in Harrisburg, Pa.

On a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Failing to regain his bride a hearing was had before Judge Burke.

"When did you meet this man?" asked the judge.

"In court today," answered the girl. "But I have his letters."

"And I have hers," added Failing, presenting a bunch of letters sent from Brooklyn.

Letters of Woeers.

These letters show the progress of the courtship. One of the first says:

"By your letters and your picture I see I can trust you. I believe I like you truly. I just love your eyes. If we are suited, I know you are the one man for me. I am glad you are tall, because I am, too. I have no beauty, but I have a good figure and long, thick golden hair. I wish I could see into the future and know what to do. Your Blondie."

Later the letters from Miss Dukes became a bit more fervid and the signature "Blondie" became "your loving darling Girlie."

After Miss Dukes started for Chicago the first time and lost her ticket she wrote a letter explaining the circumstances.

"I Think of You Every Minute."

A little later in the same day she wrote this letter:

"Dear Dearest Will: It is most nearly 9 p. m., and, O, I simply must write you all by my lonesome. This is a sweetheart letter. You must excuse some of my expressions, dearest, darlingest Will, because I think of you every minute and I dare not think what might have been if I had not lost the ticket. Curses on the fate! What do you think of your sad, naughty girlie? I expect a scolding from my naughty, loving man, but I send you the loveliest kiss and you dare not scold me after that. All my love and an ocean of kisses from Ida."

Other letters contained snatches of poetry, following being excerpts:

The sun may shine, the sky be blue,
Or calm may be the sea.
But as my thoughts are all of you,
It matters not to me.

"Does your mother know about this?" asked Judge Burke.

"No."

The case was continued a week to give Capt. Halpin a chance to find the woman who is said to have lived with Failing for a year or more.

CLIMBS ROPE FOR CHILD.

Descent Was Easy, But Return a Hard Task for Mother.

Sheridan, Wyo., July 30.—Standing for hours in cold water at the bottom of a deep cistern and racking brain and body to escape and save the life of her little two-year-old baby, for whose sake she had descended, was the experience of Mrs. A. W. Frazier, a rancher's wife, residing on Buffalo creek, thirty miles from Sheridan.

The story of the mother's heroism and devotion came to light when mother and child were brought to Sheridan for medical treatment.

While at home with her child, miles from the nearest neighbor, the baby fell into the cistern while at play. The mother followed instantly, dropping to the bottom of the well by a rope fastened to the top, and finally succeeded in rescuing the child and herself by climbing the rope and hauling the child up after her.

THINK BOSTON DANCE VULGAR

Women's League Ladies Say New Style is Too Familiar.

TO MAKE WAR ON IT

The young people of Fort Wayne's various social circles stand in danger of falling from grace among the ladies of the Women's league, of this city, because they insist on becoming enthusiastic over the Boston waltz dip and the Boston hop while on the dance floor.

These are the dance steps that started in Boston about four years ago and are just now becoming rather popular on Fort Wayne dance floors. They have been in full vogue for several years in most of the large cities of the east and middle west, and although received hesitatingly at first, they are now very popular with both old and young.

But the new steps, which are innovations from the old and accustomed straight waltz and two-step, are considered as vulgar and somewhat "too familiar" among some of the adult circles of the city, and the ladies who believe the new dances are not right are preparing to make war upon them. It has been understood that the "Boston" was to be taught at one of the local dancing schools next year, but the dancing teacher in that school will have to break over the wishes and the active demands of the ladies if the dance is taught.

The Boston dance can be seen in execution on the dance floor at Robison park on almost any night of the week, and while it has appealed to some, there are others who think it improper and an abridgment of the rules of propriety of the dance floor.

TOOTHACHE

Nothing is easier to cure or relieve that toothache, and no one need bear it longer than the time required to reach my office when it will be relieved instantly and painlessly. This does not mean that the tooth must be extracted, on the contrary most aching teeth can be saved and made useful by proper treatment and filling. Toothach does not always originate, as many imagine, from an exposed nerve. A toothache from an exposed nerve is a quick, lancinating pain, or, in common parlance, "a jumping toothache," and is usually caused by the contact of some substance with the exposed nerve. This toothache immediately subsides when the cause is removed. The tooth can then be treated and filled, thus regaining its usefulness.

The necessity of keeping the teeth in a good condition is being daily more and more appreciated, as is shown by the mere fact that there are more than 40,000 dentists in active practice. In dentistry foresight is everything. What will be done easily today may be impossible a little later.

Prompt action saves both teeth and money, and that is a double economy.

LETTERS FROM REAL PEOPLE, ENCLOSING PENNIES AND DOLLARS, TOUCH WOODROW WILSON—MITES SENT TO HELP ELECT HIM.

(By Harry Burton.)

Sea Girt, N. J., July 30.—The above is a facsimile of just one of the letters that Ben, the old gray-haired postman, hands to Governor Wilson every day at the "little white house" in Sea-Girt-on-the-Bay. It is just one of a hundred or more of such "loaded" missives that are coming continually from every point in the land.

"These letters are the pride of my life," said Governor Wilson, as he puts his hand on the great pile of them that lie on the corner of his desk. "They are letters from the people—from the real people.

"Every cent that has come in them has come from persons who are not wealthy—to whom such a gift means something, no doubt, of a sacrifice. There is not a penny in them of tainted money—not a cent from corporations.

"It takes money to run a campaign and I need money. But I don't want any that doesn't come from the right places. I want it to come from 'the average man' who believes in me."

Woodrow Wilson reads every one of these letters and acknowledges each one personally. On the bottom of every letter you can see in his own handwriting this little notation:

"Ack. by W. W."

This means, "Acknowledged by Woodrow Wilson."

One of the letters that pleased the governor a lot came from a tiny mining town in the Virginia hills. It read this wise:

"Greetings to the next president of the United States. Please accept the enclosed $5 for you and the democratic party during the campaign. I believe in clean, srightforward politics and would furnish more funds for you if I were not in such a financial position as to be compelled to work my way through college."

"It's no easy matter to work your way through college," commented Woodrow Wilson, who was president of Princeton university for many years, "and it meant something to that boy to send in $5."

Here is another letter:

"As this is my seventieth birthday, I want to celebrate the three-score-and-ten mark by adding my mite to your campaign fund. I would give more if able, but as you say you prefer small donations, I am not going to be ashamed to send my dollar. I am called a prophet round about these parts and I predict your election in November by the biggest majority ever given any candidate."

From a Pennsylvania business man comes this letter:

"Enclosed please find check to help you to make an honorable canvass for election to the presidency this fall. I am aware that you have not wealth of means and I propose to stand by a man who had the courage to spurn the offer of Ryan."

And then comes a letter that is very pleasing to Governor Wilson:

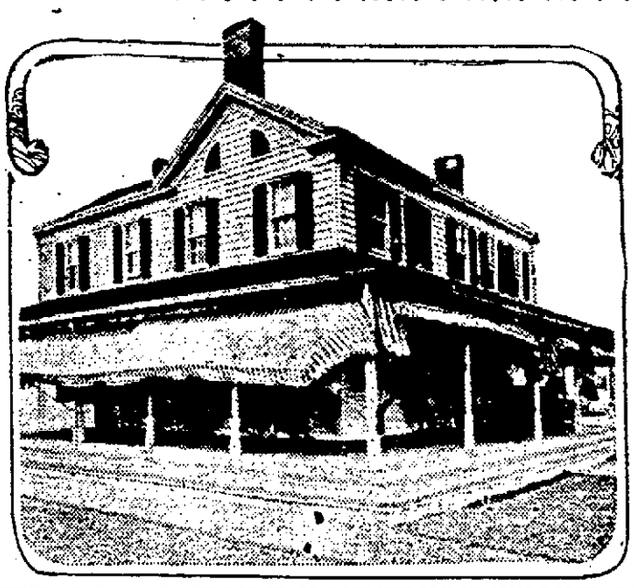
"Dear Woodrow Wilson," it begins, "you may not remember me as of the time we were students together at Princeton. I myself confess I have only a di mrecollection of you, and I wish now it were otherwise. Indeed, about all I can remember of you is of a tall, thin boy with a not-very-handsome face, but with the features half redeemed by an amused curiosity, looking on occasionally when we were at football practice. However, I have followed your career since you were selected president of our university and have always been on your side. I am hoping for your ascendancy to the white house and am enclosing my check with the belief that you will always hold fast to your high purposes."

Another letter—a letter showing sacrifice:

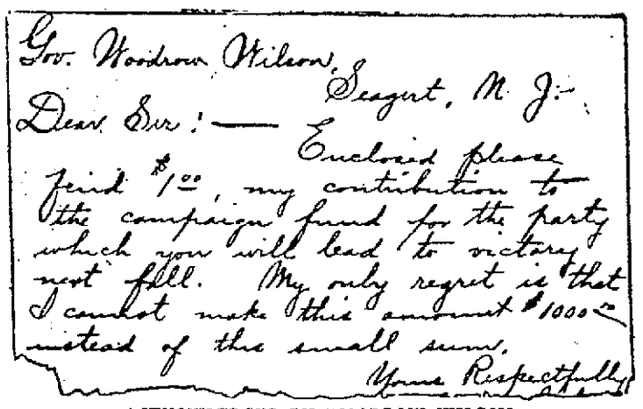
"Enclosed you will find $10 to help in your good fight in the interests of the people. Instead of buying a summer suit I am donating this amount to the cause of humanity which you represent. I would be proud to wear my old suit for such a reason. Yours for the white house, ——."

For his wife, an old man writes:

"A lady admirer of yours—my wife, who is seventy-two—insists upon sending you her contribution because she says 'you are an honest politician.' She will not even wait for the naming of the national finance committee. So I comply and enclose for her this $10."



OFFICE AT SEA GIRT WHERE WOODROW WILSON IS CONDUCTING BUSINESS OF HIS CAMPAIGN.



Gov. Woodrow Wilson, Seagirt, N. J.
Dear Sir:— Enclosed please find $1.00, my contribution to the campaign fund for the party which you will lead to victory next fall. My only regret is that I cannot make this amount $1000.00 instead of the small sum.
Yours Respectfully

ACKNOWLEDGED BY WOODROW WILSON.

HOW TO HELP WOODROW WILSON BECOME PRESIDENT.

Maybe you would like to send your fifty cents or your dollar or your check to Woodrow Wilson to help him build up a "popular" fund. If you do, mail your contributions to him at Sea Girt, N. J.

Do not be afraid that it is too small. Already he has received $3,000 from interested persons all over the United States, and not one of these gifts has exceeded $100.

And that is what Governor Wilson likes best of all about them.

"They mean more to me," he says, "because they come from the heart."

And here is a letter from a little boy who "reads the papers:"

"Here are 100 pennies from my bank. I am a little Choctaw boy who lives in Oklahoma. I read about you and want you to be president. Maybe this will help you, Mr. Wilson."

WIFE SENT $20,000 IN BONDS TO WASH

New York Broker Lost No Time in Getting to the Laundry.

FOR HIS COLLAR BOX

New York, July 30.—"What's that?" demanded T. H. Lamprecht, a retired broker, living at Seagirt, N. J., of Mrs. Lamprecht, as they sat at the breakfast table. "What did you say about what I did with the bonds?"

"Why," replied Mrs. Lamprecht, "I merely asked if you had placed them in the safety deposit vault?"

"But I never took them out of the house," he said.

They were referring to $20,000 in negotiable railroad bonds that Mr. Lamprecht had kept for a time at his summer home, and meant to take into New York and place in his safety deposit box.

"But, my dear," said Mrs. Lamprecht, "you remember when you carried that dress suit case of laundry into town because you don't like the laundry work out here? Well, I put the bonds in an old cardboard box full of collars."

Mr. Lamprecht made the very next train into town. He had left the clothes with the Gardner & Vail laundry at 3 Doy street.

"A box—an old pasteboard collar box with collars in it and a small fortune besides—what's happened to it?" exclaimed Mr. Lamprecht as he entered the laundry.

The manager explained. It appears that when the laundry was left at the downtown office it was sent to the uptown plant and that a sorter removing the collars notices that the box was still heavy to the touch. He took another look and found the bonds, where Mrs. Lamprecht had tucked them away. The sorter was "poor but honest." He delivered the bonds to the manager. The manager returned the bonds, minus the cardboard box.

The sorter had a half-day off, but the retired broker with the bonds in his wallet announced that he would have something to say to the sorter when he should meet him.

A WEEPING WOMAN TIES UP TRAFFIC

Farmer's Wife in Busy City Draws a Gigantic Crowd.

HITCHED AT CORNER

Chicago, July 30.—One weary, sad eyed horse, a dilapidated buggy stuffed with straw for a seat, and a farmer's wife crying with all her heart at State and Madison streets held the attention of three mounted policemen and many citizens. Incidentally traffic was blocked.

Joel Hopkins, just arrived from his farm near Palos Park, Ill., on a shopping and sightseeing mission, hitched his rig at the busiest corner in Chicago, telling his wife he would return in five minutes, as he intended buying clothes in the store "over the way." She promised to wait and watch the horse until his return.

For the first five minutes Mrs. Hopkins sat serenely counting the number of floors in the skyscrapers around her. At the fifteenth floor she was startled by a murmur from the sidewalk.

Bringing her gaze down, she was astounded by the sight that greeted her—more than 200 persons gazing at the outfit and yelling, "Where'd you come from?" and "Where'd you get it?"

Policemen failed to disperse the crowds, autos lined up, and high interest in Mrs. Hopkins prevailed.

For a while Mrs. Hopkins wept and called loudly for Joel. When he arrived he was indignant.

"What's th' matter, honey?" he yelled. "What are they doing to ye?"

Then the Palos Park man chased the onlookers to a distance and jumped into the wagon and kissed his wife. The crowd yelled in delight.

When the Hopkinses finally got separated from the crowd and drove on down State street, the yelling continued. The crowd followed them for blocks until policemen interfered.

STOLE GIRL WHEN ONE WAS WANTED

Man Swings Minnie Simpson to His Saddle Bow and Rides Away.

IN LOCHINVAR STUNT

Muskogee, Okla., July 30.—William at hand, and this week a pair of half-hired girl, but could not find one.

"That's easy; I'll get you one," said William. So he mounted his bay horse, rode ten miles into Muskogee with Charles Martin to help if he needed assistance, picked up Minnie Simpson, fifteen years old and good looking, swung her to the saddle bow before him, like Lochinvar of old, and bore her away to his aunt.

True, Edwards and Martin are under $500 bond on a charge of kidnapping the girl, but they do not seem to mind, and Minnie says she is satisfied with her new job.

Minnie Simpson lived in Muskogee, and her mother was planning to place her in a convent. But Minnie disappeared. Her mother started a search.

A story was told that two boys were seen to ride in from the country, pick up a girl on the street, swing her up on one of the horses and gallop out of town. The mother of the missing girl swore out a warrant for the arrest of the two men, charging kidnapping.

Edwards was found at his aunt's home. Minnie also was there. She refused to return to Muskogee or prefer a charge of kidnapping against Edwards and Martin.

THESE RATS HAVE NO FLEAS ON THEM

Group of 420 Rodents Fail to Yield a Solitary Insect.

MEN GET NO REWARD

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—The rat colony of Seattle—reduced to a minimum by the department of health and sanitation, under the direction of Dr. James E. Crichton—is enjoying the luxury of a thorough "combing" to procure specimens of various breeds of fleas. More than 420 rats were combed during the past thirty days, but not a single flea of the "low jumping" species, which carries the bubonic plague germ, was found.

Last March the department turned loose along the city's water front twenty-five rats, each of which had been dyed either red, yellow or green. Naturally, it was the luck of an Irishman to capture the first green rat St. Patrick's day, and the department paid $2 for the rodent's carcass.

Since that time five other rats of the colored variety have been returned to the department, leaving nineteen unaccounted for.

The purpose of the department in dyeing and liberating these rats was to trace the migration of the rodents from the water front during the spring and summer months. None of the rats captured had strayed more than three blocks from the water front, proving that the rodents prefer the shipping district, where docks and warehouses afford a good living.

The city last month paid out $42.20 for 420 carcasses, ten cents bounty being paid to any one who brings the carcass of a rat to the department of health and sanitation.

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

READY TO KEEP TEAM NEXT YEAR

Springfield Fans Don't Like Talk of Dubious Outlook for 1913.

YOUNGSTOWN SLOW?

They don't like it a bit in Springfield because Indianapolis has taken away their former manager, O'Day, and now on top of that, there is a story that Sol Meyer, the principal owner of the Reapers, has said that the future of baseball in Springfield is dubious. Meyer has said that the club there has not been a money maker and that unless something is offered in the way of better support, the franchise may be transferred to another town.

But the fans themselves do not believe the town is such a bad base ball paying proposition. They insist that the crowds there have always been sufficient to pay the guarantee and that on many days the attendance was large enough to bring the average up to the second in the league. One thing is sure—the fans want to know of Mr. Meyer just exactly what he is going to do with the franchise next year, and if there is any possibility that he is going to give it up, there will be plenty of backers secured for a team next year.

Detroit of the American league is watching Outfielder Al Sheer, of the Youngstown Steelmen. Friday Mr. Navin wired President Paul Powers of that club, asking him to fix a price for the local outfielder, which he did. Detroit will send a scout there this week to watch Sheer. The price that the club asked for Sheer was not made public. The Philadelphia Athletics are also said to be watching Sheer

Four Central league heavers this season have fallen before the number nine. Cy Alberts, of Fort Wayne, won eight straight victories; "Snooze" Goulait, "Christy" Matteson, of Wheeling, and "Buck" Sterzer, of Erie, all accomplished the same feat. But each in turn fell before the ninth hurler to be encountered. Another peculiarity to be mentioned is that Matteson defeated both Alberts and Sterzer for the close of their streaks.

Catcher Eddie Wager, of New York city, has been signed by the Erie club and is now being used. Wager was acquired to tide the Sailors over until Schang and O'Leary get into condition to play. Erie figures that it has nine hard games ahead with Terre Haute, Grand Rapids and Fort Wayne, and the catching department must be in the hands of a veteran.

Wager was formerly catcher for the Wilkesbarre team in the Tri-State league. This year, however, he has been playing semi-pro ball about New York city.

"What is the matter with the Steelmen?" That is the all-important question in Youngstown at present. After leading the Central race during the greater part of the season, the team has apparently been demoralized and is now sinking fast toward the second division from which they may not be able to rise by September 2.

It is difficult to tell what really is the cause of this terrible set-back, as the club is practically the same today as it was several weeks ago when it was humbling all competitors and remaining on the top of the ladder, while other Central clubs were battling for a place that they might come down the stretch in what seems certain to be one of the greatest pennant chases in minor league ball this season.

To use the words of Bill Phillips, perhaps, expresses better than anything else, just what the trouble is. "We are too slow, for one thing, and we haven't got enough young blood," he said. That may or may not be the situation, but Bill is acting on the idea that youngsters are needed, and accordingly he has started in pursuit of a few that looked ripe to enter this league.

Two more Central league players are doomed to rise to the higher ranks of the baseball world. The two men are Pick and Hargrove, both of Terre Haute. Pick is a shortstop and Hargrove plays on the receiving end—of the batteries. The cause of the belief that they are to move to the upper circles is that there are several scouts of the National league watching them very closely and that certainly means something.

HIS FAREWELL TO PRIZE FIGHTING

Jack Johnson Announces That He Has Quit the Game for Good.

HE IS WORTH $200,000

Chicago, July 30.—Jack Johnson, champion heavy weight pugilist of the world, announced last night he had fought his last fight.

"The promoters won't give me my price for fighting now and if I wait a year I'll probably not be in condition to put up a fight worthy of a champion. So, it's good bye to John Arthur Johnson, champion of the world," he said.

Asked if he intended to retire in favor of any fighter as Jeffries did in the case of Marvin Hart, Johnson said:

"No; let Jeannette, Langford and McVey fight it out. I think McVey will thrash any of them, but that is their troubles, not mine. No white fighter can give either of these men a good battle."

Johnson has saved his money. He said last night that he was worth $200,000, the greater part of which is well invested. Practically all of this has been made since he fought Tommy Burns in December, 1908.

M'DERMOTT WITH DETROIT.

Former Local Third Sacker Is Getting Big League Chance.

Frankie McDermott, the auburn-haired former third sacker for the locals, is just now getting the chance of his baseball career. Frankie has been switched to the Detroit team in the American league to try his hand at the third base game there, following two years with Providence in the International league. Recently, McDermott has been burning things up on the ball diamond, playing a star game at third base and helping along the general batting average of the team.

To win out in Detroit, McDermott must compete with Vitt and Louden, who are alternating between second and third. However, his friends are placing much confidence in him, and as Detroit has been on a slump all year, they are expressing the belief that Frank can do a full share towards helping the Tigers along.

The Fort Wayne Pearls lost to the fast Huntington Special team Sunday by the score of 7 to 4. O'Brien, catching for the Pearls, had his hand split in the eighth inning and was forced to retire.

DR. CARSON'S LAST YEAR—HAS PROMISED WIFE TO GIVE UP BASE BALL.

DR. FRANK R. CARSON.

For Years President of the Central League, to Quit So He Can Make Some Money.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Wheeling, W. Va., July 30.—"These fellows can not run me out of baseball, but this is my last year in the game. I have had my mind made up for some time and I have promised my wife that I would get out. I did this some time ago, but never said anything about it because I did not want people to think I was quitting under fire. Baseball has cost me $30,000 since I have been in it and I must make some money in the next ten years. I am in the automobile business on account of my son, but I still have a dental practice that would make most people's eyes turn green with envy and I am ready to lay down, not because I think I can be whipped, but because I am done."

These are the strong words given to a Sentinel staff correspondent by Dr. Frank R. Carson, president of the Central league, and for ten years one of the most prominent figures in minor league baseball. The doctor, with his son and wife, and Miss Herbst, of South Bend, have been making an auto tour of the eastern end of the circuit of the Central league, and left this city this morning. The doctor added that the baseball situation in the minor league is due for a big change and that in his opinion a commission of three men will have to be appointed to find out the trouble and to remedy it.

CLANCY AND HIS PARD COME BACK

He and Rogers Start Rally That Won First Game at Wheeling.

CY ALBERT'S DEBUT

By CHARLES H. SPALDING.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 30.—One of the most pleasing features of a mud-spattered contest that opened the series on the Wheeling lot yesterday was the fact that William Clancy and his able side partner, Edward J. Rogers, came into their own and started a rally in the seventh inning that sent the battling Billikens to the front and yielded a lead that beat the Stogies 15 to 8, and most revenged Owner Claude H. Varnell for a distressing affair pulled off here at the opening of the season when Jack Mercer earned himself a tinware decoration.

Frederick "Cyclone" Alberts debutted in most approved style after Roy Keener's first appearance in his native state had been marked by a most decided rout. The pitcher who helped make Fort Wayne famous in the first year of the Central league pitched steady ball after he had relieved our noted boil culturist and was better in the pinches than when things were breaking nicely for him.

An enlivening feature of the play was an encounter between Manager Edward J. Anderson and Umpire "Cy." Pfirman that almost precipitated a riot in addition to getting the manager fired from the lot, and with a stiff fine and possible suspension for shoving the presiding officer in a decidely rude way.

Blount opened with a hit and Vandagrift shoved a ball by the second baseman on a hit-and-run play and after Jansen had booted Shaughnessy's offering Clancy forced Blount at the plate and Rogers kicked in with a drive to left that would have gone for three bases if he had not slipped in the mud rounding first and fallen at full length. Fabrique hit and got the Billikens off to a lead of three runs.

An exciting bingling bee in the third gave Wheeling what looked like a commanding lead, but Shaughnessy and his troopers kept plugging away hard and accumulated ten runs in the seventh and eighth and iced the contest. With victory assured Alberts did not have to extend himself in the closing rounds of the exhibition.

McLafferty played the greatest game at third that has been seen on the local ball yard this season, two stops in the ninth standing out so boldly that it warmed up the lethargic Wheeling ground and earned him a round of applause.

Rogers had a perfect batting average with five hits, one a triple, and a base on balls in six times at the plate. His three-base rap followed on Clancy's double sent Richie to cover and brought out Frank Winchell, who was the softest kind of mark for the Billikens.

Shaughnessy was robbed of two triples by some of the glit-edge brand of fielding put on by Boos who went almost to center field fence twice and grabbed fly balls with his back to the stands. Keener pulled off a good fielding stunt in the first inning when he retired Edington on an infield roller on which he slipped and fell and made the throw to first as he sat on the ground.

Wheeling has a short right field fence and the home runs all went over the enclosure into the Ohio river.

An hour before the game it was raining in torrents and there seemed no chance to stage it, but it was played in order to give the teams a chance to play a double tomorrow and avoid the Burman races on Wednesday.

A MOTORCYCLE PARTY.

Three members of the Motorcycle club, William Drelbelbiss, Clyde Miller and William Crowl, accompanied by three young ladies, made a motorcycle trip to Warsaw Sunday, and after spending a day there, returned to Fort Wayne, making the trip in a little less than three hours.

DICK GREFE DRAWS $50.

Dick Grefe, of the Zanesville Athletics, in the game yesterday received a check for $50, a material reward for slamming a league ball against the bull sign in the Zanesville park on the 11th of July.

THERE'S A GOOD SOUND TO THIS

Fort Wayne Looks Like the Pennant Winner to Bert Annis.

ONLY TWO RIVALS

(From Terre Haute Star.)

At present it looks as though Fort Wayne had a good chance for the pennant. The team is playing good ball and with the pitching staff the lineup looks about as strong as any that has appeared here this season.

Bert Annis, owner of the Grand Rapids team, in an interview yesterday declared that in his opinion the Undertakers would finish at the front. He says the only teams he thinks have a look in against the Billikens are Erie and Youngstown. He does not believe that the Dayton champs will be dangerous and he is of the opinion that Wheeling will cause the top notchers little trouble. Springfield, he figures, is quite out of the race owing to O'Day's action in taking four of the best men from the lineup. The Reapers, however, have been going as strong as ever and may furnish a surprise before the season closes.

Terre Haute, Grand Rapids and Canton, as well as Zanesville, Akron and South Bend, are quite out of the running for the flag. The Terreirs, however, will put up a hard fight in an endeavor to finish in the first division, and Canton and Grand Rapids will wage a battle that will not be a tame affair by any means.

The Terreirs, by winning four straight games at home, advanced from the ninth to the eighth place, but went back to their old position again yesterday afternoon by losing to the Orphans.

GREAT GAME HAS BECOME SCIENCE

Denton T. Young is One of Old School Who is Admitting It.

TELLS ALL ABOUT IT

By CY YOUNG.

There is no denying that baseball has improved since I entered the game twenty-three years ago. Perhaps there hasn't been so much improvement in the individual players as some may imagine, but there has been a great change in team play.

There really is no way to tell whether individuals have improved or not. In horse races and athletics we have records which indicate whether there has been improvement, but in baseball we have nothing of the kind.

We cannot prove, for instance, whether a pitcher like Walter Johnson has more speed than Amos Rusie had in his palmy days. It is merely a matter of opinion whether our best infielders are better than the men of a quarter of a century ago.

But in team play there is no chance for an argument. You no longer see outfielders rooted to one spot. For almost every batter they change position, and, in fact, knowledge of the batters is almost half the game.

Infielders use their brains more than they used to. It is no hit or miss arrangement which man will cover second on an attempted steal; it's clockwork for the second baseman to cover first on a sacrifice. Nothing is being overlooked to make the game better and faster.

Do not imagine for a minute, that pitching hasn't improved. When I broke into baseball, all a pitcher needed was "smoke." As a matter of fact, that was all I had, and I made good from the jump.

Now to be successful, a pitcher must, first of all, have control. He must know the weakness of each batter. He needs a change of pace, a fast one and a slow one, to be anywhere near the top, and he must include a curve ball in his stock.

And just as long as men think, the game will improve. It is only natural that it should do so, when brainy men devote the best part of their lives to the study of the game.

Baseball is not perfect. It never will be, and for that very reason it continues to hold its popularity.

MAPLE SYRUP STALLS AUTO.

Driver Mistook It for Lubricating Oil.

Intervale, N. H., July 30.—N. R. Young, a New York musician, who is spending the summer at Intervale, came to grief on a motor trip to Jackson, where he met with a party of friends in a peculiar fashion. Mr. Young, who keeps his motor car in the Intervale house garage, takes all care of it himself and has been experimenting with various sorts of lubricating oils and has samples in tin maple syrup cans.

How a can containing genuine Vermont maple syrup came to be added to his store no one seems to know, but Mr. Young filled his oil tank before starting and everything went finely until Wentworth hill was reached, when the engine refused to work.

Mr. Young then telephoned to H. S. Mudgett to tow him home. When the engine was taken apart it was so stuck together with maple syrup that it was only with the greatest difficulty that the piston rods were extracted. Mr. Young is now looking for the practical joker who was responsible for the substitution.

ANTI-PRIZE FIGHT AGITATOR LOOKING TO WOMEN TO DOWN THE BOXING GAME IN CALIFORNIA.

Tom McCarey, Promoter, Says He Will Put Picture of Fighter and His Family In Hands of Every Woman In State to Prove Just What Kind of Citizens They Are.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—California is getting ready to let the voters of the state decide whether they want prize fighting or not.

A "prize fight petition" is being circulated throughout the state and if enough signatures to it are secured will put the sport up to the people at the next general election and if they vote against boxing it will mean that the sport will go the way of horse racing.

If the proposed law is enacted by the electors of the state, amateur as well as professional boxing will be prohibited. It seems calculated to put the ban on all kinds of sparring exhibitions, even of the mildest sort. It would provide that anybody who boxes for any kind of a prize would be "in bad." This provision is broad enough to include amateur boxing.

Under the proposed law, even if a man agreed to box for nothing yet he would be unable to do so if any charge was made for admission. So no matter how you take it, the law would put the fighting game out of business if it were enforced.

The proposed law is so worded that anybody who is connected in any way with a "contention, fight, prize fight, or sparring exhibition, between two or more persons, with or without gloves," will be "souked" to the extent of "not less than $1,000 and be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year."

"Two or more persons"—this means that the framers of the proposed amendment of the penal code must have had battles royal as well as ordinary boxing contests in mind.

It is to the women, the new voters in the state, that the anti-fight people are looking to put the fight game out of business. The people backing the proposed law feel sure that as a whole the women are with them. But Tom McCarey, fight promoter of Los Angeles, disagrees with them.

"I am willing to leave the fate of boxing in California to the women voters," says Tom McCarey. "It is not their opposition that is to be feared by lovers of the game in this state.

"My experience is that women, when voting, do not act from prejudice; but carefully investigate the questions upon which they are not fully informed. All we ask is such an investigation.

"Our training camps are always open to women and nothing goes on there that women should not witness. Nearly all the boxers of today are clean, fine little fellows. I think they will compare favorably with any other class of men you could name. Not one in a dozen of them either smokes or drinks. Most of them are married.

"And I don't know where you could find happier marriages than those of Ad Wolgast, Johnny Kilbane, Jack White and a dozen more I could name. I have in mind a photograph that I would put in the hands of every woman voter in California. It is Johnny Kilbane wheeling his baby along the board walk at Venice with his young wife on his arm the day after he won the featherweight championship of the world."

THE ANTI-BOXING LAW.

Any person, who, within this state, engages in, instigates, aids, encourages, or does any act to further a contention, fight, ring fight, prize fight, or sparring exhibition, between two or more persons, with or without gloves, for any prize, reward, or compensation directly or indirectly, or at which any admission fee is charged or received, either directly or indirectly, or shall go into training preparatory to such contention, fight or sparring exhibition as trainer for any person or persons contemplating a participation in such contention, fight or sparring exhibition, or shall act as aider, abettor, backer, umpire, referee, trainer, second, surgeon, assistant, at such contention, fight, or sparring exhibition, or shall take or receive any ticket, token, prize, money or thing of value or representative value, from any person or persons, for the purpose of seeing or witnessing any contention, fight or sparring exhibition, or any owner, lessee or agent of any building, hall or enclosure of any kind, who shall permit the same to be used for such a contention, fight or sparring exhibition shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars and be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year.

Wear an O-P-C. Why Not You Who Work?

Nearly every golfer wears an O-P-C suspensory. Athletes wear them.

Army men in Europe are required to wear suspensories.

Thus they avoid a fearful tax on vitality—they conserve their energy, ward off weariness, multiply capacity.

Thus they get from themselves the best that is in them—as you should do.

Write for our book about the O-P-C—the scientific suspensory, famous for 25 years. It tells of a comfort which increases vitality—in an amazing way. It tells of something which every man who knows it will adopt. Write us now.

ND DEMOCRATS SOLIDLY UNITED

litical Prophets Have Begun Figuring on the Outcome

HILLES SEES IT

ashington, July 30.—Charles D. s, chairman of the republican na- l committee, is proceeding on the ry that the new party movement not seriously damage his candidate. he states that Mr. Hilles regards as tful now, Mr. Taft, in 1908, carried necticut, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, ne, Massachusetts, Montana, Neva- New Jersey, New York, North Da- , Ohio, Oregon, West Virginia and onsin. These fifteen states have a of 181 electors.

re are the states that Chairman s regards as reasonably certain to their electoral votes for President : California, Delaware, Illinois, a, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hamp- e, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, h Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washing- and Wyoming. Total, 155.

f course, the solid south is conceded overnor Wilson. Under this head is ed the following states: Alabama, ansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, ssippi, North Carolina, South Caro- , Virginia, Texas, Arizona, Oklaho- Kentucky and Missouri. The states ed have 158 electoral votes. Most ublican leaders concede Wilson also states of Nebraska, Colorado and vada, which have sixteen votes.

Where Battle Will Rage.

ccording to these figures, President t begins the campaign with a prac- l certainty that he will have 155 es and Governor Wilson 174. Tak- these figures as a basis, Mr. Taft ds 122 to win, while Governor Wil- only has to gain ninety-three to at- the presidency.

ow, according to the claims above forth, the battle in the campaign be waged most vigorously in the wing states: Connecticut, Idaho, ana, Kansas, New Jersey, Maine, yland, Massachusetts, Montana, York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, nessee, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Mexico These states have 202 toral votes. As things now stand, are the states that Governor Wil- is certain to carry, according to the ions of democratic leaders who have n sizing up the situation: Alabama, zona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecti- Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, tucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, ssachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, ssissippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, rth Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, lahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South rolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Tex- Virginia, Washington, West Vir- ia and Wisconsin. Total, 439.

According to the Wilson figures there ill remain only ninety-two votes to be vided by Messrs. Roosevelt and Taft. hese votes are apportioned among clev- states as follows:- California, Idaho, inois, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, New exico, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont d Wyoming.

Democrats Are United.

There are many reasons for the con- dence of the democrats. In the first ace, the party is united. Every prom- ent democratic leader will support ilson and Marshall. The party is in od fighting trim in every pivotal ate. On the other hand, the repub- ans have their troubles everywhere. New York a certain element will sup- rt Roosevelt, while the great body of e party workers in that state will line behind Taft. Just a few weeks be- re the Chicago convention a fight was ged in Ohio that has utterly demoral- d the party in that state.

The Illinois republicans are confront- by a Roosevelt movement that en- ngers the whole ticket. The Pacific ast states are up in arms against the publican organization, while the north- est has contributed more to the move- ent away from the republican party an any other section of the country.

Maine Probably Democratic.

It is the belief of democratic leaders at the drift in New England is against e republican party. Maine was won the democrats two years ago. The dications are that Maine will be found the democratic column this year. The mocratic leaders believe that party rife and the Roosevelt movement will row such states as Massachusetts, nnecticut and New Hampshire into e Wilson column.

Wilson will have the active support on e stump of every democratic leader of ote. William J. Bryan, of Nebraska; udson Harmon, of Ohio; Champ Clark, Missouri; Oscar W. Underwood, of labama; Eugene Foss, of Massa- usetts; James A. O'Gorman, of New ork, and all the other democratic eadliners will take the stump in be- alf of Governor Wilson. In 1896, 1900 nd 1908 many influential democrats ithheld their support from Bryan. In 904 the Bryan men were lukewarm in heir support of Judge Alton B. Parker, f New York. The democratic candi- date this year has the support of every leader of his party.

UNDER MILITARY RULE.

Strike of Dock Laborers at Port Arthur Necessitates Action.

Port Arthur, Ont., July 30.—The entire anadian northern coal and ore dock dis- rict at this place is under military rule today, following the strike of the dock laborers yesterday in conjunction with those of Duluth and Superior.

Three hundred soldiers from the Nine- ty-fourth regiment under command of Colonel Lime today prosecuted a search n the homes of the striking laborers for weapons, following the reading of the riot ct by Mayor Ray and a formidable array f revolvers, knives and water soaked clings was confiscated. Processions of sympathizers which passed through the treets yesterday were not seen today, nd their leader, Rev. Madison Hicks, socialist orator, is now counselling peace.

The trouble arose over the demands of he men for 30 cents an hour instead of 5 cents. The strikers are mostly Italians nd Galicians. Chief of Police Angus Mc- Clellan, who suffered a fractured skull in clash with strike sympathizers last ight, still is in a critical condition.

Shrider.—Funeral services for George Shrider Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of P. J. Watt, 1426 High street, Rev. Vollmer officiating. The Royal League, of which the deceased was a member, will also conduct services. Interment at Lindenwood.

NEAR DEATH FROM NOSEBLEED.

Elwood Man Loses Two Quarts of Blood Before Hemorrhage Ceases.

Elwood, Ind., July 30.—William Polson, aged 64 and married, was seized with an attack of nosebleed and lost two quarts of blood before the hemorrhage could be stopped. Acids and other medicines that were injected into the nose were not effective. As a last resort three quarters of a yard of medicated silk gauze was placed in the nostrils. The flow of blood was stopped and Polson may recover.

AVOIDS TRAIN, BUT DROWNS.

Member of Signal Crew Jumps to His Death at Valparaiso.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 30.—Jumping from a high trestle into a creek to avoid being run down by the Canadian express, Lee Moffley, member of a crew engaged in installing a signal system on the Grand Trunk railroad, near here today, lost his life by drowning.

Clarence Gardner, Moffley's partner, also jumped from the trestle, but was rescued by other members of the crew. Moffley was 23 years old and married.

UNCLE SAM'S DOGS TO TRAIN OTHERS

Pedigreed Collies Shipped to Alaska to Herd Reindeer.

FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—Lass and Major, blue-blooded collies, who date their ancestry back to the coming of some Collie William the Conqueror to Bonine Scotland, have been hired by Uncle Sam to educate the dogs of Alaska. Their particular field of activity will be instructing collies, shepherds and huskies of the wild north in the herding of government reindeer.

When the steamship St. Helena sailed from this port Lass and Major, as well as four other collies of less aristocratic strain, were on board as passengers. They are in charge of A. N. Evans, superintendent of the northwest district for the department of education. Among the places they will visit will be St. Michael, Teller and St. Lawrence Island.

At the last local bench show Lass and Major took blue ribbons and special prizes against the field. They were purchased from Mrs. A. Stinson, of this city, recently, and Major made the transfer memorable by falling into the hands of the poundmaster. He was rescued from prison by W. T. Lopp, chief of the Alaskan division, department of education, very much soiled and worn out with his adventures about the city. At herding, collies excel every breed of dog known to man, and Lass and Major, being almost intelligent enough to speak English, are expected to accomplish wonders with the native dogs of the north. Some doubt is expressed whether or not they will readily learn the Esquimau and Indian dialects of northwest dogdom, but Mr. Lopp and Mr. Evans think that a short acquaintance in Alaska will make them proficient in tongues.

POWDER HOUSES BLOW UP.

Explosion Few Miles From Center of Cleveland Does Much Damage.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—Two storehouses of the Austin Powder company near Newburgh Heights, a few miles from the heart of the city, were blown up at 7:30 this morning. Damage was done neighboring manufacturing plants and dwellings, but thus far no loss of life has been shown, though there are vague reports of two or three persons missing.

The force of the explosion was felt for miles around and in the city plate-glass windows were smashed. Scores are reported to have suffered minor injuries, a number being blown off their feet.

Several carloads of explosives went off, and though the powder company thinks $15,000 will cover its loss, that to other property will swell that amount vastly, some estimates running as high as $1,000,000. The homes of many persons practically were wrecked.

SUBMITS TO VACCINATION.

Christian Scientist in Navy Who Held Out at Last Yields.

Washington, August 30.—Joseph J. Kapsa, the gunner's mate, who steadfastly refused to take the navy anti-typhoid vaccination because he was a Christian Scientist, was court-martialed for refusing to obey an order of a superior officer and sentenced to the disciplinary camp at Port Royal, S. C., has decided to take the treatment. He probably will be restored to duty. Senator Works, of California, and others, who interested themselves in his case, advised him to submit to vaccination. Senator Works, too, is a Christian Scientist.

SECRETARY KNOX ISSUES A WARNING

Tells Mexican Rebels That Raids on Americans Must Cease.

APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Washington, July 30. — Secretary Knox today officially infomed General Pascual Orozco, leader of the Mexican rebels, that raids and attacks upon American property in northern Mexico must be stopped immediately or the United States would take preventive measures.

President Madero has been requested to send the troops to northern Mexico. He has answered that troops are on the way and has expressed the belief that the trouble soon will be quieted.

Appeals to congress to take some action to relieve the condition of the American refugees from Mexico, came today in the form of nearly a score of telegrams from citizens of El Paso.

The house passed the senate resolution today authorizing the secretary of war to provide tents and temporary rations at El Paso for the care and relief of American refugees from Mexico.

There is still no thought of armed intervention by the United States in Mexico; on that point officials are positive.

What has been done is to repeat in more emphatic terms the injunction served upon the Mexican government and upon Orozco himself on April 14, against mistreatment of American citizens and interference with American property in Mexico. As in the first instance the state department is silent as to what will be done by the United States government if the warning is disregarded It was sufficient in the first instance and it is fully expected that it will again meet the needs of the present case.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT FAILS.

Worried Over Case in Court, Woman Swallows Iodine.

Worried by the fact that she had lost two diamond rings and also because she was due to appear in Justice Tancey's court this afternoon on a charge of provoke filed by a neighbor, Mrs. Alvina Coleman, 336 Montgomery street, tried to end her troubles shortly after noon by swallowing about a third of an ounce bottle of iodine.

The woman lives with her parents and they, assisted by Dr. William Enslen, succeeded in counteracting the effects of the poison. Her condition is not serious.

The provoke affidavit is signed by Ethel Dove, of 342 Montgomery street, and it is the outcome of a quarrel which developed between the two after Mrs. Coleman had found her rings missing. The case was postponed in the justice court until Wednesday morning because of the illness of Mrs. Coleman.

INVITATIONS TO VANQUISHED.

Defeated Candidates Are All Invited to Seagirt Ceremony.

Washington, July 30.—At the request of Gov. Woodrow Wilson, Representative Ollie James, of Kentucky, who will make the speech of notification at Segirt August " today sent formal invitations to the exercises to the governors of all democratic states and the defeated candidates at the Baltimore convention. Every effort will be made to make the notification exercises a "harmony" gathering.

TWO NAMED BY TAFT.

Ohio Man New Assistant Secretary of Interior.

Washington, July 30.—President Taft today sent to the senate the nomination of Lewis C. Laylin, of Ohio, to be assistant secretary of the interior and that of S. T. Wright to be collector of internal revenue for Alabama. Ulysses G. Mason, a negro, had been suggested for the Alabama collectorship but on the recommendation of Senator Johnston the president decided to appoint Wright, a white man.

CASES POSTPONED A WEEK.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—The arraignment in police court today of the nine aldermen and the secretary of council committees on a charge of receiving bribe money or conspiring to receive it was postponed one week when it was announced that the prosecutor had not completed his warrants against all of the accused officials. All of the defendants were in court today.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Charles H. Middaugh and Sarah G. Greer.

MEETS TOMORROW.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Trinity M. E. church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dr. Goheen, 1411 Wells street. Mesdames Edmunds and Smith will assist the hostess.

TAFT WILL TAKE UP OHIO PUZZLE

Conference to Pick Candidate far Governor to Replace Dillon.

CAUSES MUCH WORRY

Washington, D. C., July 30.—President Taft has arranged for a conference with Ohio state leaders on Thursday for the purpose of determining upon a republican candidate for governor to the place of Judge Dillon, who has withdrawn from the race.

This conference will be of importance to the president's campaign for re-election. It is realized that the withdrawal of Judge Dillon on the ground that it would be useless to continue the fight not only injures Mr. Taft's chances, but makes it difficult to get a man of any prominence to serve as the gubernatorial standard bearer.

No Ohioan of political ambition is disposed to sacrifice himself needlessly. Yet if one cannot be found the progressives will dominate the state and aid the Roosevelt campaign against Gov. Wilson.

It is the purpose of the president to draft some man of popularity and force and to back him in every way in his power. He discussed the situation today with Harry K. Daugherty, one of his political advisers, but no conclusion was reached.

The members of the state central committee have been invited to take part in the white house function in connection with the official notification to the president of his nomination at Chicago. They will be detained here for the purpose of discussing the gubernatorial questions.

FILES DAMAGE SUIT.

Frank O. Ehinger Wants $3,500 From Traction Company.

Frank O. Ehinger filed suit in the circuit court today against the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company to recover damages to the amount of $3,500 for injuries sustained when the plaintiff was thrown from a city street car November 30 last. Harper & Eggeman are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Arguments were opened in the superior court this afternoon in the case of R. G. Mitchell, administrator for the estate of James C. Hill, vs. the Chicago & Erie railroad. The case was venued from Huntington county. Bowers & Feightner are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WHEN 100 PLAYS GOLF.

Is His First Game—Also Drinks Ginger Pop for the First Time.

Plymouth, Mass., July 30.—Uncle Tilden Pierce, 101 next December, has just played his first game of golf. He has just had his first automobile ride, too, and his first glass of ginger ale.

"I used to think golf was foolish. Now I know better. I used to hate automobiles. Now I like 'em. And I never had any idea how good soda pop was until I had that glass of ginger ale. It's a life saver!"

Uncle Tilden is an inmate of the Ryder home for aged people. Charles L. Willoughby, millionaire of Chicago, and Capt. Ellis Harlow, former harbor master, took the old man to the golf links in Willoughby's car.

AGREES TO PLANS.

Wabash Road Submits Plan of Work for Elevation.

The board of public works, in special session this morning, accepted the plans which had been prepared by City Engineer Randall and Engineer Cunningham, of the Wabash railroad, for the elevation of the Wabash tracks at Taylor street, Broadway, and Thompson and Harrison streets. The council may agree to take up the plans for ratification at the special meeting this evening, called to consider the Harmer battleground matter.

CITY BREVITIES.

Charles E. Bond, vice president of the Old National bank, who became suddenly ill a few days ago, continues to improve at his home on Fairfield avenue, although he is not out of danger.

A class of 200 candidates will be initiated next Monday night at the first regular meeting of the Beneficial Order of Mystery, which was organized Monday night. This city is to be the supreme home of the fraternity.

Miss Lodetta Ankenbruck, cashier at the Anthony hotel, leaves early next month for a vacation which she will enjoy at Grand Rapids and Chicago.

The report which has been circulated during the past week that the next meeting of the North Side Civic Improvement association would be held on next Wednesday evening, is in error. This meeting is not to be held until August 7, which is one week from next Wednesday evening.

NEGLECT THE CARE OF YOUR SCALP AND YOUR HAIR WILL BECOME A DISGRACE

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body.

In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to die and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in Newbro's Herpicide.

The dandruff germ cannot live on a head to which Herpicide is regularly applied. The germ dies. The hair ceases to fall. The terrible itching stops almost instantly.

That is what Newbro's Herpicide does.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in stamps for booklet and sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

DENIED THE CHARGE

Uniontown, Pa., July 30.—Arrested at High House, accused of shooting at James Shannon, superintendent at the High House works, Flora Harrington, aged fifteen, resembled a walking second-hand store. When searched at the jail the following articles were found in his pockets: One revolver, pair of knuckles, three pocket knives, Philadelphia police badge, three purses, box of 32-caliber cartridges, a file, two match boxes, several small stones, a beer opener, two pipes, home-made skeleton key, large lump of tin foil, $30 in confederate money, an assortment of snuff boxes, several combs, small mirror, half-dozen hairpins, pants buttons, nails, a peach seed, an old clock spring, parts of the works of a watch, a package of post cards, several truant officers' reports, three small pieces of wood, a small magnet, several yards of rope, a large piece of white chalk, a half-pound of snuff, six handkerchiefs, a watch, several watch chains, celluloid buttons and a shoe hook.

When the first attempt was made to search the young man he declared it was of no use, as he had nothing in his pockets.

HOUSE REJECTS WOOL BILL.

Washington, July 30.—The house by a vote of 172 to 56 today refused to accept the senate LaFollette wool bill as a substitute for the house bill, but agreed to a conference if the senate should ask for one.

TEN CONVICTS TO DO HARVESTING

Work Hard and Are Glad to Get Out Into the Open Air.

LIKE THE SUNLIGHT

Boise, Idaho, July 30.—To breathe free air, to see the blue sky overhead and be free for ten days was the experience of ten convicts from the state penitentiary who were returned to that institution recently. They did not escape or attempt to escape. They were out on a farm which the state has leased down the valley, and they spent the time in making hay.

Only one guard accompanied the ten men. A cook, a convict also, was taken along, and he prepared the meals and kept house while the others worked in the alfalfa fields. The work was in progress about ten days, and the men were sorry to see the end of the harvest.

One of the men insisted on sleeping outside of the house on the haystack, and every morning before the others were up he took a plunge in the waters of the irrigation ditch in the rear of the farm house.

After the work was through in the evening the men played ball and had a good time in general.

The guard who was in charge of the haymakers says that the men from the prison got the crop up quicker and better than did the hired hands working on the surrounding farms.

DROPS DEAD FROM FEAR.

Painesville, O., July 30.—Two small boys stopped at his gate last evening to talk to Willie Carrig, aged 7. The little fellow thought the boys meant to hurt him, ran into the house and fell to the floor, dead.

DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Edwin C. Williams, Nickel Plate Engineer, is Fatally Hurt.

WALKED IN FRONT OF LOCOMOTIVE

One Arm and a Leg Cut Off —Accident Happened at Leipsic.

Edwin C. Williams, a Nickel Plate engineer residing in Bellevue, was so badly injured at Leipsic, O., at 5 o'clock this morning that he died at 7:30 o'clock while being brought to this city to go into the hospital.

Engineer Williams had been working as a fireman since freight traffic began to fall off—two months ago—and was on what is called the "turn around" freight run between Leipsic and Bellevue with Engineer George A. Mullen. Just before commencing the work of making up a train at Leipsic this morning Engineer Williams went into the restaurant at the side of the tracks for a cup of coffee. As he came out two engines that had been down at the water plug backed up the tracks towards him. He saw the first one, but failed to see the second and it struck him as he was crossing the track, threw him down and cut off one of his legs and one of his arms and inflicted bad wounds on his head and body.

The wounded man was hurriedly placed in a caboose and with one of the freight engines a run was made for this city in the hopes of getting him to St. Joseph hospital in time to receive surgical aid, but life passed away as the train was in the vicinity of Glasgow avenue, in the eastern part of the city. The company's surgeon at Bellevue was on the train with Williams and gave all possible aid to him, but his efforts resulted only in prolonging his life an hour or so.

The remains were turned over to Undertaker Peltier and they will be shipped to Bellevue for burial.

Edwin C. Williams was about thirty-eight years old, married and had a daughter aged fourteen years. The family resides in Bellevue. He worked for the Nickel Plate about seven years, beginning as a fireman and being promoted last November to engineer. He was well liked by his associates and among Nickel Plate men was nearly as well known here as at his home city.

WAS THROWN INTO THE LAKE.

Result of a Court Martial Held by Boys of the T. A. G. Club.

The boys of the T. A. G. club, eleven in number, spent last week in an outing at Lake James. Among them was Karl F. Granneman, of the Wabash railroad shops, and the boys relate with a good deal of humor the involuntary plunge that he made in the waters of the lake—dumped in by his companions as punishment for alleged disloyalty to the club.

At the lake during the week was a bunch of Indianapolis girls, occupying a cottage near that of the boys, and the two "crowds" became close friends. As a joke the boys one day secured possession of the bathing suits of the girls and tied them in hard knots, but Granneman came to the relief of the girls and helped them out of the difficulty by untying the knots.

It was for this that the T. A. G. boys vowed vengeance. A court martial was held and Granneman was put on trial with Carl J. Lepper, of the Pennsylvania shops, as judge advocate, and the other nine members of the club, Fred Bloenker, Earl Siebold, Fred Wiebke, T. R. Haberkorn, Ed Linderger, Leonard Neubert, Willmore Keyser, Roy McCormick and Albert Brown, as the jury.

The investigation could only end in one way, the finding of the accused guilty. And that was the verdict of the court. The punishment was that Granneman be thrown into the lake and from one of the piers of the boat docks the decree was carried into execution. He was pitched, full dressed, into the deep waters of the lake. But, being a good swimmer, he suffered no other ill effects than a good ducking.

After the affair was all over Granneman took it good naturedly. He contents himself with the assurance that he stands higher in the good graces of the Indianapolis girls than do the other members of the T. A. G. club. He was their friend in the time of need.

ENGINEER LEEPER IMPROVING.

Friends are now permitted to see Engineer Joseph J. Leeper at the St. Joseph hospital, where he was taken early in June suffering from an attack of paralysis that all believed would be fatal. Mr. Leeper is now occupying a wheel chair a portion of each day and many friends call at the hospital to see him. There is every indication that the improvement now being made will continue until Mr. Leeper is able to resume his place at the throttle. It will be remembered that he was stricken while taking a fast Pennsylvania train to Chicago and was removed from the cab at Plymouth. The improvement in his condition is cause for rejoicing among the Pennsylvania employes in particular and the city in general, for the sick man is widely and favorably known in Fort Wayne.

SNATCHED BOY FROM DEATH.

Brakeman Bolman is a Hero at Kalamazoo.

The Kalamazoo papers are publishing stories of heroism concerning Christian F. Bolman, a Grand Rapids and Indiana brakeman, who lives in this city. The story in substance is as follows: "On Monday night, July 22, an automobile in which were seated two 16-year-old boys and one 14-year-old girl, stopped on the tracks of the G. R. & I. railroad directly in front of a fast moving train. As the collision occurred, Mr. Bolman, who was braking on the train, and who was standing on the pilot of the engine, curled himself upon the top of the pilot and with his right hand grasped one of the youngsters from certain and instant death. The force of the impact threw the other boy on top of the engine, from which he quickly rolled to the ground, and the young girl escaped with slight injuries, afer being hurled through the air for twenty feet. The boy Mr. Bolman saved was Fred Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Slater, of Kalamazoo."

HAND BADLY SCALDED.

R. L. Baler, a passenger fireman on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, sustained painful injuries through the bursting of a water hose he was using to "wet down" the coal in the tender Sunday. The stream of hot water severely scalded one of his hands. The accident happened on northbound passenger train No. 7 a few miles north of Fort Wayne.

EAGLES TO HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN.

A special train bearing Eagles to Cleveland to attend the annual convention of the order will pass through this city over the Nickel Plate at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. It starts from Chicago, with delegates from the lodges of that city and some farther west, and will take on other delegates at other places en route, including Fort Wayne.

TRAINS WERE DELAYED.

A freight wreck which threw cars on both the east and the west bound tracks occurred near Wooster, Ohio, on the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania yesterday, blocking the line completely. The passenger trains affected by the blockade were Nos. 9, 19 and 11, which did not reach Fort Wayne until after 9 o'clock last night.

FIRST LAY OFF IN SIX YEARS.

John Stewart, a caller at the Wabash warehouse, is enjoying the first lay off in six years. He has gone to Rome City to stay a week. During his service with the Wabash Mr. Stewart never missed an hour from work until this week, a record that cannot be duplicated in Fort Wayne.

TO LAUNCH BIG BOAT.

L. D. Nordstrum, electrical engineer of the Fort Wayne Electric works, will launch a motor boat which has a capacity of carrying forty or more people at Lake James Saturday. He will take a vacation next week and will make good use of the launch. He has a cottage at Lake James, which will be occupied the balance of the summer by his sister.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

George Smith and C. Reinking, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

J. H. Kamm, Pennsylvania tinner, resumed work this morning. He had been sick several days.

Raymond Drewey, a truckman, resigned a position in the Wabash freight house this morning.

W. L. Wilt has returned from a trip east in the interest of the Pennsylvania motive power department.

Walter Rusher, who had been sick a week, resumed his duties at the General Electric works this morning.

Switchman W. L. Kress had the ball of a switch lever to land upon and crush one of his great toes this morning.

Dennis Hayes and his family are at Rome City for a two weeks' stay. Mr. Hayes is a Wabash yard conductor.

Charles Rippe, foreman of the Pennsylvania pattern shop, has returned from a two weeks' outing at Lake James.

Fred Seckman resumed his duties as a clerk at the Bass foundry office this morning, after taking a week's vacation.

The Pennsylvania division officials are out on sub-division C today on an inspection trip, using the division special train.

S. Gross, a Grand Rapids fireman, left the St. Joseph hospital yesterday. He was operated upon for abdominal trouble some weeks ago.

Fireman E. J. Lewis, of the G. R. & I., and his wife, who had been visiting in Chicago two weeks, has returned to his duties on the road.

Fred G. Duryee, chief wireman at the Fort Wayne Electric works, has returned from the lakes, where he spent ten days with his family.

Engineer P. E. Malone, who recently engaged in the tobacco and cigar business at 1416 Calhoun street, has moved into the adjoining room, No. 1414.

G. A. Townsend, is out on a two weeks' automobile trip. He is the head of one of the departments at the Bowser works and is taking his annual vacation.

Martin L. Shanabarger, for over forty years employed in the L. E. & W. shops at Peru, died in that city yesterday morning, after a short attack of heart disease.

Mrs. Romary, wife of Machinist Fred Romary, was removed to St. Joseph hospital this morning, where a surgical operation may be performed. She is very sick.

Chief Dispatcher D. H. Caldwell, of the Nickel Plate, will complete a vacation this week and resume work Thursday. He has been off duty three or four weeks.

Alfred and Herbert Roepke, sons of Gus Roepke, of the Pennsylvania, have returned from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, where they visited relatives two or three weeks.

Frank Simonton, engineer on the Pennsylvania flyer train, and R. A Schuler, a Pennsylvania yard engineer, are on duty again after being on the sick list a few days.

A bunch of laborers passed through the city this morning, en route from St. Louis to Blakesley, O., where they will work on double tracking the line. There were about twelve in the party.

Robert Learmonth, jr., who was operated upon for appendicitis last Sunday, is making satisfactory progress towards recovery. The young man is a son of Robert Learmonth, of the Pennsylvania.

Harry Patterson, a clerk at the Wabash freight house, has returned from Peru, where he went to see Charley Allen, assistant freight house foreman, who is very sick at the Peru hospital with typhoid fever.

Manager Al Ringle, of the Pennsylvania shop team league, who has been sick for over a week, reported for work yesterday at the Pennsylvania machine shop, but after an hour's trial had to quit work and return to his home.

O. E. Cunningham, assistant file clerk at the Pennsylvania motive power offices, showed up for work this morning badly disfigured temporarily. Several days ago a "hot" baseball landed upon and broke the bones of his nose.

The Berne Witness announces the marriage of Elmer Raymond and Miss Drusilla Aeschliman, which took place at Decatur. Mr. Raymond is a brakeman on the G. R. & I., running in and out of Fort Wayne on the Grand Rapids branch.

Two new engines, Nos. 2442 and 2443, recently received from the builders, have been adjusted and this morning were put into service on this division of the Wabash. Engines 816 and 851, just taken out of white lead, have also been put into service.

Thomas Cragg, who meets callers in the reception room and attends to other affairs in that department of the Bowser works' office, entered upon a two weeks' vacation today. E. W. Lewis has taken Mr. Cragg's place in the reception room in the meantime.

Henry Brubaker, a foreman of one of the departments of the Erie shops at Huntington, was a caller at the Bass foundry yesterday. Five or six years ago Mr. Brubaker was an inspector for the company and came here frequently to inspect castings and car wheels at the Bass foundry.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stahlhut and son have gone to Traverse City, Mich. Mrs. Stahlhut is a hay fever victim and the trip is for the purpose of affording her relief from the malady. They will remain at Traverse City until the cool weather of the fall drives the malady from this part of the country. Mr. Stahlhut is a well known machinist.

R. T. Powers, a coremaker who came here a year ago from Garrett, resigned a position at the Pennsylvania shops this morning for the purpose of going to Bluffton to take employment in a foundry. J. L. Fessenden and J. P. Boyce also resigned positions at the Pennsylvania shops this morning. They will leave the city.

Committees of the International Car Workers' union from all portions of the Wabash system assembled in Danville last week and held a secret session at the Illinois hotel. While nothing concerning what actually occurred was given out, it was stated that a discussion of wages and a new working agreement with the company were among the principal things discussed.

LIGHTNING'S DENTAL WORK.

Knocks Out Horse's Teeth, But Kills at the Same Time.

Massillon, O., July 30.—A bolt of lightning did a cleaner job of painlessly extracting teeth recently than any veterinary ever did.

A horse belonging to Edward Sibila was standing in a corn field three miles west of here, hitched to a corn cultivator, when the cultivator was struck by lightning.

The bolt shattered a singletree on the cultivator, passed through a trace up the hind leg of the horse, along its spinal column and knocked all its teeth out. The horse died.

SHOULD WOMEN WORKERS JOIN UNIONS?

Vassar Graduate Says YES, and Wants to Organize 6,000,000 of 'Em Into Country's BIGGEST UNION.

VIOLET L. PIKE.

(By Violet L. Pike, a Rising Woman Labor Leader.)

Small wages.
Long hours.
Lack of "say-so."

These are the three big factors which are going to drive every woman worker in the United States into the shelter of labor organizations—organizations that, in general, will be formed exclusively of women and which will not be affiliated with men's organizations except that, in strikes, they will unite for a common cause.

Why has it become necessary for women to have exclusive unions?

Because women are constituted differently from men, generally working most effectively under conditions unlike those under which men are most effective. Then, too, women need independent organizations because they are engaged in independent trades—trades in which men are not engaged at all.

The prime motive for banding together is woman's imperative need of the "say-so"—of the need of driving a bargain with her employer.

And about those "short wages." Six dollars a week is the average. There are 6,000,000 women workers in this country. Mind you, the $6 is the average wage. It's the few well-paid workers that brings the average up that high. More than 3,000,000 women workers in this, the richest country in the world, receive less than $6 a week for their labor.

This $6—or less—is not a fair wage. It is not an American wage. It is a starvation wage. And people are coming to realize that a girl cannot clothe and feed herself properly on such pay.

So, for this reason, as well as for the "say-so," women must organize. Woman's labor is worth, in her lines, as much as man's is in his lines, and must be paid for at a corresponding rate. And the women's labor union is the one means for securing such pay.

"The long day" is another thing that women have got to fight. Getting legislation is slow work. The women are going to organize and cut down the long day themselves.

In many factories girls work, in rush season, twelve to fifteen hours a day. As one girl worker says: 'This isn't work—it's just serving a life sentence, with no time off for good behavior!"

So the women are going to fight for their rights—for the right to be treated as human beings instead of as machines. Of course, it will be a desperate fight, for the employer, as soon as his "rights" are infringed upon, will ask: "Can't I do as I like with my own business?"

And the organized working woman will answer:

"Not just exactly, Mr. Employer. Because, you see, it's our business, too. You have put in your money—that's your capital. We put in our strength and skill—that's our capital. And we both put in a common factor—our brains. And can't you see, Mr. Employer, that our brains demand some 'say-so' in this business in which we are as much employed as you?"

And the 6,000,000 women workers of the United States will stick to their guns until they get a real acceptance of their answer—until they are allowed a say-so in the conducting of their own lines—which they sell, but do not give away to their employers.

DEMOCRATS PLAN EARLY CAMPAIGN

Drum Corps Organizes With Total of Thirty-Two Members.

IS TO BE A FEATURE

In view of the near approach of the actual opening of the political campaign, local democratic enthusiasts have started to organize for the battle and last night, under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Harry Lowry, a drum corps of thirty-two members was organized. Mr. Lowry was appointed manager and E. T. Drew is to act as secretary of the aggregation, while those who have already signed up are as follows:

Drum Major and Captain—Glen Young.

Bugles—Harry Szink and Oscar Schoenberg.

Bass drums—J. J. Myers and E. T. Drew.

Snare drums—J. A. Beck, Ed Zehender, Emil Bloomfield, A. L. Richey, W. C. Beery, William Murphy, C. Kyler, Fred Lichtsinn, W. Lambrook, William Brossard, C. S. Boitet, Paul Kendzora, Harry Knepper, James Strawer, John Raidy and R. O. Gilbert.

The corps will be known as the Central drum corps and will attend all rallies held by the democrats, all county and district meetings and any events that may come up within the party ranks during the campaign. Special uniforms will be worn, consisting of blue Norfolk coats, white duck trousers and white military caps. The membership will be completed within a few days. There will be eight bugles, twenty snare drummers, two bass drummers and a color bearer.

News has been received in Fort Wayne to the effect that sentiment in DeKalb and Steuben counties strongly favors the nomination of County Clerk A. W. Austin, of DeKalb, for joint senator on the democratic ticket. Since the recent resignation of Fred L. Feick, friends of the Auburn man have been working untiringly for his support, and as Steuben county has had the joint senator for some time, it is considered likely that Mr. Austin will be successful as a candidate for the place.

District Chairman E. G. Hoffman states that everything is quiet throughout the Twelfth district and that a democratic victory is conceded by all who are familiar with the situation.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT IS NOW $1.05.

Made an Advance of Two Cents—The Local Markets.

Wheat is bobbing around in price in these after-harvest days. Monday it was $1.03; today it is $1.05. This is the quotation on old wheat. New wheat is quoted at $1.02. While the wheat crop in this vicinity is poor, other sections of the country are helping the supply and the prices have not advanced to high figures. The oats crop is a big one and as a result that cereal is now down to 40c a bushel. Country produce remains high. Eggs were selling on the Barr street market this morning at 23c and butter at 33@35c. Potatoes sell at figures ranging around $1. Apples bring all sorts of prices, according to quality, from 60c to $1 a bushel. There is going to be a big crop of apples this year.

The local market is flooded with vegetables. The stalls on Barr street this morning had piles and wagon loads of them. Green corn was prominent and great quantities of it were sold. About everybody with a market basket went home with a dozen or two of roasting ears. The market was an unusually large one. Potatoes sold at $1 a bushel.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., July 30.—Clear, cool weather in the northwest had a bearish effect today on the price of wheat. September started at 94c to 94¼c, touched 94¼@94⅜c, and then declined to 92c.

Large offerings from Iowa and Nebraska carried the market still lower. The market closed lower with September at 93¾c.

Rain in the southwest where complaints have been made that damage was being done by drouth gave the corn market a set back. September opened at 66¼c to 66¼c, rallied to 66¾c, and later dropped to 66⅛c.

Improvement in the Illinois prospect led to a further decline. The close was steady with September lower at 66c.

Absence of selling pressure resulted in oats keeping comparatively steady. September started at 33¼c to 33⅜c and eased to 33⅛c.

Heaviness of grain weakened provisions. Initial sales with September delivery were $18.25 to $18.37½ for pork, $10.72½ to $10.75 for lard and $10.62½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, July 30.—Such changes as occurred in the early dealings in the stock exchange today were again in the direction of lower prices. Most of the active issues, with the exception of Steel, declined fractionally.

Extraordinary dullness attended operations in stocks today. For this condition several theories were advanced, including uncertainty regarding earnings of the steel corporations for the quarter just closed, a statement of which will be issued after the market closes, and concern as to the finding against that corporation by the majority of the Stanley committee. Slight heaviness was noted at the outset, followed by a firmer tone, under lead of Reading. Steel moved within narrow limits, while Beet Sugar was the weakest of the specialties. Bonds were steady.

Prices worked toward greater firmness in the first hour. Reading and the Sugar shares showing gains of a point or better, while Union Pacific and Steel advanced fractionally.

The market closed firm. The better tone was maintained in the final dealings, with strength in Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific ic.

LOCAL FORECAST.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 30.—For Fort Wayne and Vicinity: Local showers tonight or Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

GENERAL FORECAST.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—For Indiana and Lower Michigan: Local showers tonight or Wednesday.
For Ohio: Showers tonight or Wednesday; warmer tonight in south portion.

SUMMARY OF WEATHER CONDITIONS

During the last twenty four hours there have been some light scattered showers over portions of the Atlantic coast districts, the upper lake region, and portions of the plains states, although the rainfall has not been heavy in any portion of the country. While the weather continues quite warm over the southern and southwestern states, moderately cool weather continues over the northern half of the country; from the lake region to New England, the highest temperatures yesterday were not much above 80 degrees.
Unsettled weather will prevail in this section, with local showers tonight or Wednesday; there will not be much change in temperature.
W. S. PALMER,
Local Forecaster.

OPENS WAR ON MOSQUITO.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—In its co-operative investigation with the department of public health, as to means for extermination of mosquitoes, the department of public works plans to engage the services of the best entomologists in the city or elsewhere in the solution of the problem. With $5,000 provided by council for the purpose, Director Cook said it was the purpose of the department to make a most thorough engineering and entomological study of the entire subject.

The work, he said, would be started in South Philadelphia. Already descriptive maps of all streams, canals, stagnant pools and marsh lands in that section of the city have been prepared, and the investigators will devote their efforts to devising ways and means in the control of these waters to prevent the breeding of mosquitoes either by filling in the hollows of stagnant pools or using oil, where the depth of such pools may make the cost of filling prohibitive.

CITY BREVITIES.

George C. Wagner, of Kendallville, has enlisted as an apprentice seaman at the local navy recruiting station in the federal building. He has been sent to Indianapolis.

Harry Lowry Monday evening organized a drum corps to be used in the democratic campaign this fall. The members will be uniformed.

The school board at a special meeting Monday evening decided to test a smoke consuming device on the Jefferson street school, and if it is found practical will be placed on all the schools of the city. Henry Hilgeman was the lowest bidder for the erection of the Rudisill school and it is likely that the contract will be awarded to him.

John Morsches, aged 7, son of F. J. Morsches, 229 Masterson avenue, fell Monday night while playing at the rear of his home and sustained a fractured right arm.

The American Auditing company, completing the work of examining the books of the Kerr Murray company, finds that the firm is on a going basis and that the company's assets amount to $499,000 while the liabilities are but $310,000. Plans for reorganization of the company are under way.

County board officers and members of Divisions 1 and 2 of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. at a meeting this afternoon at St. Patrick's lyceum listened to the report of Alternate Delegate Mrs. Bergie Connors, who attended the national convention at Chicago last week.

Members of the Central Electric Traffic association will meet in this city at the Anthony hotel August 7. Representative officers of the company to the number of twenty-five will be present.

Mrs. Cora Meyers has been removed from her home at 531 Holman street to the isolation hospital, suffering from smallpox. Mrs. Meyers' husband, who has been at the isolation hospital for several weeks recovering from an attack of smallpox, expects to be released from quarantine tomorrow.

INDIANA MAN WAS VICTIM.

Alleged Chicago Robber Captured on Roof of Building.

Chicago, July 30.—After a chase in which a dozen revolver shots were fired, Harry Broad was arrested last night on the roof of an apartment building, after he had knocked down George L. Guyatt, a wealthy miller, of Knox, Ind., and robbed him of $147 and a $300 diamond within a hundred feet of a police station.

When the police pursued Broad he ran into an apartment building and forced the elevator conductor to take him to the roof. The police followed and captured him after a struggle.

IT WILL TAKE HIM 156 YEARS TO PAY HIS FINE.

Danville, Ill., July 30.—Hardy H. Whitlock, now living in Detroit, who, while sheriff here several years ago, repulsed a mob that threatened to lynch a negro, was fined $75,000 yesterday for embezzling $37,500 while serving as county treasurer after his term as sheriff had expired. He pleaded guilty.

Whitlock is to pay $40 a month until the fine is paid. At the rate fixed it would take him 156 years and three months to pay the fine. He now is fifty years old.

Special Street Car Service Will Be Rendered Spy Run Patrons Tomorrow and on Girls' White Dress Parade Day

Owing to the crowded condition of the Robison park cars after leaving the court house corner, Manager Williams has made arrangements for special street car service for Spy Run patrons on Baby Day and on day of White Dress parade. Special cars will start from St. Mary's bridge on Baby Day, tomorrow, and on Girls' Day, Wednesday, Aug. 14th. These cars will leave the bridge at 12:30, 1:00, 1:30, 2:00 and 2:30. This service will get the Spy Run patrons to the park in time for the parades at 3 p. m.

INTO NEW QUARTERS.

Battery B. Comfortably Housed Permanently at Curling Rink.

Captain Harry Clark and a large number of members of battery B, recently moved into new and permanent quarters in the Curling rink on State street, held an enthusiastic meeting Monday night. Five enlisted with the organization and three applications are on file. Twenty additional men are needed to bring the membership up to the required number demanded by the war department to enable the battery to take a road march. To receive recruits, Lieutenant Otto Brintzenhofe will be at the armory every day.

The new quarters are the best the battery has ever had and were secured through the courtesy of Charles Centlivre. The lot adjoining has been leased from the traction company and will be equipped as an athletic field.
